State Probe Report Bares Abuses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo Mental Health Center and Hawthornden State Hospital at Cleveland produced the starkest revelations in a state probe of patients abuse at Ohio's 29 mental institutions.

In Toledo, they included an admission by a physician suspected of being a homosexual that he "socialized with and took out-of-state trips" with young male patients, documented evidence of the use of alcohol and marijuana by employees, and thefts from patients' accounts totaling more than $10,000.

The information is contained, along with other findings of the special investigation by the highway patrol, in "summaries" made available by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Department Director Timothy Moritz said most of the problems already have been or are being corrected.

At Hawthornden, one attendant was quoted as saying he was trained how to beat patients without leaving marks on their bodies.

The department said the patrol found psychiatric aides there had engaged in sexual acts with female patients.

The patrol also reported that fecal and liquid matters at Hawthornden had been left on floors at times for several hours, while a doctor there wore clothing laced with a garlic smell at all times after having lost jobs at three institutions previously for the same reason.

Moritz and Donald D. Cook, highway safety director who is the patrol's top administrator, took exception to news media charges that they tried to cover up much of the information which came out of a 13-month investigation.

Cook said his decision not to release the entire patrol report was made because parts of it have not been presented in court where the state still seeks to prosecute 82 of 164 criminal cases that resulted from the statewide probe.

Charges of a coverup "are groundless," Cook said.

Otherwise, incidents and conditions suggesting abuse were scattered among 27 institutions. Many of them stemmed from managerial and administrative problems which have since been corrected, Moritz said.

Those at which sexual misconduct was reported included Apple Creek (two incidents), Columbus State Institute (numerous incidents involving male and female patients), Central Ohio Psychiatric Hospital (two women patients in the deaf unit, with staff employees).

The Dayton Mental Health Center, along with several others, was cited for questionable investigations into deaths. In one case, a physician signed a death certificate without seeing the body, the department said.

At Apple Creek, two female patients on one occasion were knocked unconscious by an attendant. Columbus State Institute was charged with having incomplete death and autopsy reports, and doctors there reportedly wrote prescriptions for institutional employees. CSI has 20 employees with felony arrest records. Psychiatric aides at CSI were charged with being responsible for most of the physical and sexual abuse, and with providing opportunities for sexual acts among patients.

The reports said there were incidents of overmedication at the Cambridge Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center, and that abuse of sick leave has been a problem at the Athens center.

Wayne Hays To Bow Out Of Congress

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Wayne L. Hays, whose relationship with Elizabeth Ray sparked a congressional payroll-sex scandal in Washington earlier this year, today withdrew as a candidate for re-election.

Hays, 65, submitted his resignation to the Columbiana County Board of Elections here. The resignation was confirmed by his district office.

The resignation means the Democratic congressman, former chairman of the House Administration Committee, will leave office when his term expires in January.

Hays' resignation read: "I hereby submit my resignation for the nomination as representative to Congress on Democratic ticket for the November 1976 election. I ask that you take the steps necessary to notify the Democratic chairman of 18th District in order that they may select a nominee in my place in accordance with the laws of the State of Ohio."

The election board received the notice at 9 a.m. today.

Carol Clawson, a spokeswoman for the congressman, said Hays' office was preparing a statement. She said Hays was planning to leave on a vacation this morning with his wife, Pat.

Hays had indicated earlier he was considering withdrawal as a means of denying publicity to Miss Ray, who has used the scandal to promote a book.

"The polls show I'd win," Hays said in an interview Thursday, "but I don't want to give that woman another chance to make an appearance."

WINS COMMISSIONER'S AWARD — Mrs. Robert (Nancy) Phillips, 27724 Kingston Pike, receives the Commissioner's Special Award as the outstanding entrant in the Homemaking Department of the Pickaway County Fair from show chairman Mary Clark. The award is based on accumulative points in the department. Mrs. Phillips, who entered crocheting, embroidery, needlework, sewing, canned goods, and pies, won a total of 105 ribbons including ones from poultry, vegetables, and the flower shows. Past winners of the award are Mrs. Ed Kuhlwein, Mrs. Paul Stout, Mrs. Marion Jones, and Mrs. Paul Drummond.

$2 Million Spent To Find Prisoners

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — The State of California spent 16 months and more than $2 million to convict three men who were already imprisoned, two with life sentences.

Three of the San Quentin Six were found guilty Thursday in connection with an Aug. 21, 1971, escape attempt at the prison that left six persons dead.

Johnny L. Spain, who is serving a life sentence for murder, was convicted of killing two prison guards and conspiring with black revolutionary George Jackson to escape. Jackson was shot dead by a guard during the incident.

David Johnson and Hugo Pinell, who acted as his own attorney, were found guilty of assaulting prison guards during the 20-minute melee, San Quentin's bloodiest escape attempt. Pinell is serving a life sentence for rape. Johnson is serving five years to life for burglary.

Three other men, Louis Talamantez, Fleeta Drumgo and Willie Tate, were acquitted of all charges.

Sentencing for those convicted was set for Sept. 30. Maximum punishment for each would be life in prison.

The Marin County auditor is still compiling the bill for what was the longest criminal trial in California history. It has reached $2.1 million and will probably increase by $150,000.

More than $200,000 was spent on reporting and transcribing 22,000 pages of testimony. Jury fees — including 24 days of hotel bills during the sequestered jury's deliberations — came to nearly $100,000. Eighty-three witnesses were called.

All six defendants were accused of killing three guards and two inmates and conspiring to escape. Spain was convicted of the shooting deaths of guards Frank DeLeon, 44, and Jere P. Graham, 39.

None of the defendants was convicted of the slayings of guard Paul E. Krasenes, 52, and inmates John Lynn, 29, and Ronald L. Kane, 28.

Pinell was found guilty of cutting the throats of guards Charles Breckenridge and Urbano Rubiac Jr., both of whom survived and testified against him. Johnson was convicted of assaulting Breckenridge.

One defendant has yet to be tried. Radical Oakland attorney Stephen Bingham was also charged with murder and conspiracy, but disappeared the day of the escape attempt. Bingham, believed to be hiding in Canada, allegedly smuggled a pistol to Jackson the day of what prosecutors said was an escape attempt.

According to the prosecution's case, Jackson pulled the smuggled gun on a guard in the maximum security block and ordered him to open all the cells, freeing about 30 inmates.

The defense contended that the deaths resulted from a conspiracy by prison guards to set Jackson up for killing. Jackson was a militant advocate of prison reform.

One defendant, Pinell, said the bloodbath was engineered by prison guards, and that Jackson grabbed the gun after a guard pulled it on him.

Weather

Showers and thunderstorms likely today with a high in the mid 80s, cooler and a chance of showers tonight with a low in the mid 60s, mostly cloudy, cooler, and a continued chance of rain Saturday with a high in the low 80s. There is a 60 per cent chance of rain today, 40 per cent chance tonight, and 30 per cent possibility Saturday.

Inaccurate diagnoses of patients were attributed to Tiffin State Hospital, and the report said physicians there are "responsible to no one." It said the clinical director at Tiffin maintains a private medical practice, and that one supervisory employee, partly as a result of the way he receives compensating time, spends two winter months a year in Florida.

At Longview in Cincinnati, the department said, psychiatric aides have criminal records and in general are poorly trained or educated. Two deaths at Cincinnati were attributed to drug intoxication. The same institution was cited for "poor housekeeping and hygiene in the wards."

Refinery Blast Kills 11

CHALMETTE, La. (AP) — An explosion ripped through a 30-story tower at the Tenneco Oil Co. refinery, mashing the men and metal inside it. Eleven workers were killed and at least 10 injured.

Authorities said they believed two more men were dead in the wrecked tower after the Thursday night explosion, but their bodies had not been recovered. A crew worked through the night moving metal plates by hand, searching for the bodies.

A spokesman for the Tenneco said the cause of the blast was not known. One workman said welding was being done and there might have been a gas leak.

It was the second explosion in the tower within a week, the St. Bernard Parish sheriff's office said. However, a Tenneco spokesman said today there had been no explosion last week and the men were doing routine maintenance work. At least two dozen men were working in and around the tower Thursday night, the sheriff's office said.

"There's no way of telling what happened to the guys inside," said Larry Cupit, who was working in the area of the explosion. "It looked like it blew at the top and everything just came down inside it."

The shock of the explosion was felt as far as two miles away. There was no fire.

"Some of the victims were just blown apart," said Dr. Hewitt Thian, chief of surgery at Chalmette General Hospital. "It was impossible to identify some of them."

The victims were employed by Tenneco and Delta Field Erection Co., a subcontractor at the plant.

The silo-like tower, or "vessel," is used in the refining process to separate petroleum into heavy lubricating oil and lighter fuels.

The refinery is about 10 miles down the Mississippi River from the center of New Orleans.

The tower in which the men died is one of a field of similar structures jammed together and linked by cat-walks and pipes in a complex that stretches a half mile along the river.

The tower was partitioned by 200 metal plates 18 inches apart like the floors of a hotel. Men were working from the top to the bottom of the tower repairing and replacing the plates when the blast occurred.

Paul Montelepre, administrator of the Chalmette hospital, said the names of the dead would not be released until positive identification could be made of all of them. He described that task "almost impossible."

"Their clothes were blown off. Many of them are barely recognizable as human," he said.

Dr. Thian said three of those brought to Chalmette General were in critical condition with burns of the lungs.

"Apparently something in the tower ignited," he said. "An explosion doesn't have to last long to cause burns of the lungs. The job now is to get them through the first 24 hours. They'll have a chance if they can hang on that long."

Ford Stays Mum On Veep Choice

KANSAS CITY (AP) — President Ford's convention managers contend it would be poor politics for him to tip his vice presidential hand in advance, despite signals of Republican unrest about some of the names in his catalog of prospects.

A Southern GOP leader said a White House official told him not to worry, that the eventual choice will have mainstream Republican credentials and won't alienate conservatives. "But they always say that," said Clarke Reed, the Mississippi chairman, who protested the consideration of liberal Republicans as possible Ford running mates.

There were complaints from the North, too, on a different score. John Linnell, the Maine chairman, said eight Ford delegates there were considering withholding their support from Ford unless they are assured he won't choose John B. Connally for the vice presidency.

The manager of Ronald Reagan's campaign argues that there is growing pressure on Ford to disclose in advance who will be his running mate if he wins the Republican presidential nomination.

John P. Sears said it is increasingly likely Ford will have to do so.

Dean Burch, a top convention strategist for Ford, said he won't. "I simply don't think the delegates to this convention are in the business of wanting the President to play pop politics," Burch said. "... He's trying to choose somebody who will help him win the election and I believe most of the delegates to this convention will appreciate that."

So, as weary platform draftsmen worked in marathon sessions to complete the campaign document today, the rival presidential camps maneuvered for advantage in the tightly contested Republican National Convention.

Ford supporters won Thursday night on one clear-cut issue between the candidates. The Platform Committee voted 57 to 47 to endorse ratification of a constitutional amendment to assure equal rights for women. Ford favors the amendment. Reagan said he favors equality but not the amendment.

But that was only a warmup for the real contest, for the nomination that will be awarded next Wednesday night.

The Associated Press delegate count showed Ford 1,106; Reagan at 1,032, with 1,130 needed to name a nominee. There are 121 uncommitted Republican delegates. The count includes delegates who are publicly committed or legally bound to a candidate.

James Baker, Ford's chief delegate hunter, said the President now has 1,134 commitments for the nomination. Sears has refused to disclose a figure, saying that Reagan will have more than 1,140 votes when the roll is called next Wednesday night.

Sears said he would argue with any count that put Reagan under 1,100, and he forecast defections from the Ford ranks. He said the Ford count includes some Republicans who couldn't afford to be identified with the challenger in advance but who will vote for Reagan when the roll is called.

Burch scoffed at that. "We have absolutely no concern that the President will not be nominated on the first ballot," he said.

Greeks, Turks Set U.N. Confrontation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Greek and Turkish foreign ministers come face to face today in the United Nations Security Council to vent their dispute over the oil that may lie beneath the Aegean Sea.

Turkish Foreign Minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil missed the opening of the debate Thursday. Speaking then, Greek Foreign Minister Dimitrios Bitsios urged the council to prevail on Turkey to halt what he called the "provocative" activities of a research ship probing for evidence of oil.

Caglayangil was expected to argue that Bitsios' government was trying to turn the Aegean into a "Greek lake" by claiming possession of virtually the entire Aegean continental shelf.

Seeking to mediate between the two easternmost members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger asked the two ministers to meet separately with him on Saturday morning while he is in New York to visit the Law of the Sea Conference.

Greece and Turkey have for years had rival claims to sovereignty in the Aegean, which is dotted with Greek islands, some within miles of the Turkish coast. The Greeks say these islands give them jurisdiction over almost the entire Aegean continental shelf; the Turks say the islands off its shores sit on the Turkish shelf.

The latest flareup in the dispute was caused by the dispatch of the Turkish research vessel Sismik I on Aug. 6 to make seismological soundings for oil under the Aegean.

Both nations badly need the oil that may lie beneath the sea, and the dispute is aggravated by the Turkish military occupation of the northern 40 per cent of Cyprus. Bitsios referred to this before the council Thursday when he charged that "Turkey decided coldly to jeopardize peace in the area while the crisis created by the Turkish invasion of Cyprus in the summer of 1974 is still unsettled."

Turkish Ambassador Ilter Turkmer replied that "from the very beginning it has been the Greek government with its impossible dream of making the Aegean an exclusive Greek lake that has created dangerous tensions in the area."

He accused the Greeks of harassing the Sismik I and of militarizing the Greek islands off Turkey's shore.

Buckley Name Irks Republicans

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — While Sen. James L. Buckley's name dances in the heads of conservative convention delegates in Kansas City, home state Republicans in New York bridle in frustrated anger.

Buckley, a strict conservative, is the first New York State Republican in the last 15 years to be mentioned as a presidential possibility whose name is not Nelson A. Rockefeller.

And top officials of the state GOP, still largely controlled by the former four-term governor and now vice president and which supports President Ford's presidential bid, were busy Thursday trying to pressure Buckley into killing any further presidential speculation.

Veiled threats came from party chairman Richard Rosenbaum, a Rockefeller appointee, state Atty. General Louis J. Lefkowitz and others.

Rosenbaum and Lefkowitz both warned Buckley that a presidential move could cost him party support in his Senate re-election race.

None of the party leaders seemed to take Buckley's move seriously. But they disliked the "upsetting" nature of it and the possibility that enough delegates might vote for Buckley on the first ballot to force a second where Ronald Reagan's chances against President Ford might be stronger.

Buckley said Thursday that he would not comment on the remarks by Republican leaders. "I am not a spoiler," he said.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices opened higher in active trading today after a mixed session Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up a fraction in early trading and stock sales were running a minute ahead of the NYSE ticker tape.

At the beginning of the session, the Commerce Department reported that business inventories in June rose 3.32 billion, its biggest increase in 18 months.

Early prices today included Tandy Corp., up 1/4 to 29 3/4; Joy Manufacturing off 1/4 to 46 3/4 and Amax Inc., off 1/4 to 54 1/2.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a modest .33 gain to 987.12 after being down most of the session.

City Board Adopts Policy On Corporal Punishment

The Circleville Board of Education met in regular session Thursday evening, and after a lengthy discussion adopted a policy on corporal punishment.

The policy states that corporal punishment must be approved by the principle before being administered in each case.

Except for these acts of misconduct that are so antisocial or disruptive in nature as to shock the conscience, corporal punishment may never be used unless the student is informed beforehand that specific behavior would result in its use. Also, subject to the same exception, corporal punishment should never be employed as a first line of punishment.

Corporal punishment must be administered by a teacher or principle in the presence of another teacher or official, who must be told in the student's presence the reason for the punishment before the punishment is administered. The student need not be afforded a formal opportunity to present his side to the second official. (The second official's presence is required by the court to allow the student to protest an egregiously arbitrary or contrived application of punishment.)

An official who has administered corporal punishment must provide the child's parents upon request, a written explanation of his reasons and the name of the second official who was present.

Corporal punishment shall not be administered in the event a medical certificate is provided by the student, parent, or guardian precluding corporal punishment. Prior to the decision to administer corporal punishment any unusual condition cited by the student will be considered.

The board also moved to add kindergarten to the early admission policy as it now applies to the first grade.

Board members voted to include the school system in the Media Center in cooperation with the Pickaway County Board of Education.

Superintendent Fritz Jacobs informed the board that major medical rates with Oasis Trust had increased to $2.46 for the single rate and $6.31 for the family rate. Board members approved the increase, but stated that they would like to check into prices from other companies.

The board voted to contract with John Robinson for transportation of students to special classes at Columbus and either West Jefferson or London. The rate would be $5 a day per student to Columbus and $20 a day for two students to London or West Jefferson. Jacobs informed the board that the state reimburses the cost for the first three dollars and one half of all costs after the first three dollars.

Board members also approved a new free and reduced price lunch policy. A copy of the policy will be given to each student when school opens.

The cafeteria a la carte and extra price list was approved. A la carte lunches will be served at the high school only. All other schools will serve type A lunches. The prices for a type A lunch in school cafeterias will be 45 cents for students and 70 cents for adults. Extra milk will cost six and seven cents for students and 11 and 12 cents for adults. The bread contract for school cafeterias was awarded to the Betsy Ross Bakery in Chillicothe.

Jacobs informed the board of a small increase in junior high school home economics fees. The board approved the increase.

The board agreed to send William Rosengarten to the Distributive Education Conference in Canton, Aug. 16-18. Board members also agreed to send Jacobs, Donald Metzler, and Rodger Wolfe to the state department of education meeting at Worthington on Aug. 25.

The board approved the school bus routes the coming school year. The routes will be published prior to the opening day of school.

The board moved to establish an escrow account to meet the mandate of Substitute House Bill 268. Also approved were transfers of $1,605.62 from

GOP Platform Group Backs Amendment

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Republican Platform Committee reversed a preliminary decision and voted to support the Equal Rights Amendment. Now it is under pressure to switch again in favor of tougher stances on such issues as the Panama Canal and diplomacy in Africa.

Ronald Reagan supporters and others dissatisfied with platform subcommittee actions on defense and foreign policy have their last chance to get their views into the document being drafted for the convention opening Monday. The draft platform must go to the printer today so delegates can have copies on arrival. The convention has the final say on the platform.

The committee has worked into the early morning twice to meet the deadline. A subcommittee decision to omit a call for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment — a platform fixture for 36 years — brought furious reaction from feminists and their supporters. The full committee voted 51 to 47 Thursday night to include the endorsement.

The committee voted to retain a statement supporting "the efforts of those who seek enactment of a constitutional amendment to restore protection of the right to life for unborn children."

Even after the abortion plank was nailed down, members continued to argue as to exactly what they had committed their party to do. Advocates of the plank said it is broad enough to accommodate the positions of both candidates. President Ford has said he opposes abortion but would leave the decisions to the states and Reagan has advocated an amendment against abortion in all but extreme cases.

Moderate and conservative Republicans shared successes Thursday.

The platform writers recommended consideration of ending federal aid to education and instead eliminating federal taxes on tobacco so the states could pick up that revenue, estimated at $2.3 billion annually.

They came out against busing children to schools on a basis of racial balance and for a constitutional amendment if needed to stop the practice.

Another constitutional amendment was proposed to allow local communities to have prayer in schools.

Compulsory registration of firearms was opposed in another plank.

The platform writers also opposed efforts to repeal the federal provision under which states may prohibit union shops, with workers required to join labor organizations.

They called for reform of the welfare system, with tougher regulations on food stamps.

Discussing taxes and government spending, the platform draft denounces the Humphrey-Hawkins bill pushed by Democrats as a way to put the unemployed into jobs, some at government expense.

The platform draft endorses tax changes to encourage investment, especially through employee stock plans and easier taxation of dividends.

G-1 to F-6 and $708.83 from G-1 to F-6 by the clerk, Mary Ellen Rader.

In employment recommendations, the board approved Holly Murray to be hired for Title I reading at South Court Elementary. Ms. Murray holds a bachelor of arts degree from Capital University and she will be working with kindergarten and first grade.

In extra-curricular assignments, John Payne was assigned to replace Richard Walters as junior high track coach. Carolyn Roundhouse was assigned as eighth grade Girls Athletic Association advisor.

The board also agreed to change Karen Weibel from the bachelor of arts degree to the five years training category.

The board employed Gary Russell as a full-time custodian subject to assignment. The board reassigned Bill Hettinger as a custodian at South Court Elementary.

Frieda Willis was employed as a cafeteria cook at Mound Street Elementary, and the board approved the substitute cook list for the coming school year.

The substitute teacher and tutor list was also approved and Eleanor Stocklen and Phyllis Heacock were approved as aides for the disadvantaged pupil program.

Board members approved the total amount of last month's bills as $268,387.48. The hourly rate for tutoring was increased from $5.25 per hour to $5.60 per hour. The board agreed to pay $4.45 per hour for the noon return kindergarten bus route where the driver does not have another route.

Having completed the agenda, the board adjourned into executive session at 9:35 p.m.

Ordination Service Held At Camp Grounds

In a religious service at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, 16 young men were ordained to the ministry at the Mount of Praise Camp Grounds, the international headquarters of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union.

The ordination address was given by Rev. Donavon Humble, general superintendent, on the theme, "God's will is man's unnatural way." The ministerial charge was given by Rev. Burnis Bushong, field director for World Gospel Mission, and Rev. Melvin Maxwell, president of Circleville Bible College.

The candidates represented five denominational districts, and were presented to receive their credentials by their representative district superintendents, who participated in the laying on of hands, along with members of the boards of ordination of the church. Four young men had been ordained in previous 1976 district councils, making a total of 20.

This service culminated many years of study, training, and experience for these young men, and some of them are already serving as pastors, or are under appointment as missionaries. Two of the newly ordained men are second generation ministers in the church: Rev. Steven Hurlles, son of Rev. Elmer Hurlles, and Rev. James Dorsey, son of Rev. Paul Dorsey.

At the completion of the ceremony, relatives and friends passed through a line to extend congratulations to the participants and their families.

Neil Diamond Facing Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pop singer Neil Diamond faces trial next month on a misdemeanor charge of possession of marijuana. He was cited June 30 after sheriff's deputies allegedly found an ounce of the drug in his Bel Air home.

A lawyer entered an innocent plea for Diamond on Wednesday in Municipal Court, where trial by jury was set for Sept. 27.

PICKAWAY COUNTY APPRECIATES ITS YOUNG PEOPLE

Grand Champion Hog

The following firms and individuals paid a total of $115,073.42 for livestock sold by our youth at the County Fair last week. This amounts to at least $44,002.72 over the commercial value of these animals and represents a very substantial investment in our youth. With this broad support, it is obvious that the Pickaway County Fair Sale ranks as one of the best, if not the best, sale in the state.

A Page Of Opinion

Economic Agreement

When both Congress and the White House are in substantial agreement on the course of the economy, and that course is favorable, even a confirmed pessimist should be obliged to reassess his position.

In its most bullish assessment since the recession, the Congressional Budget Office says the economy appears to be on a sound recovery at least through the end of 1977, and in fact "it may be possible to sustain the expansion for some time beyond 1977." As recently as March, the congressional panel was skeptical whether the drop in unemployment would continue.

Now, the budget office sees both inflation and unemployment as continuing problems, but well within the guidelines of a moderate recovery. Inflation should range between 5 and 7 per cent through 1977, the agency predicts and unemployment continue dropping from its present 7.5 per cent of the work force to 6 per cent by the end of next year.

Those are almost exactly the forecasts of the Ford administration. Considering frequent political differences between the legislative and executive branches, agreement on where the economy is heading in the next year and a half is reassuring.

Friday The 13th Is Costly

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — Today is Friday the 13th - but who's counting? Oh ... really?

"Ah, yes, superstition is more rampant than ever in this country," says America's leading authority on the subject, "but it's no longer a simple matter that can always be helped by rabbit's feet and four-leaf clovers. Not these days. Now we have active demonology, which is very dangerous, my dear. And people have fears and apprehensions that go beyond good luck omens."

Claudia deLys was born in India 81 years ago, and has spent most of her life studying the whys, wherefores and whoduns of superstition; she had donated her research file of 100,000 omens of good and evil to Syracuse University - but she knows them, still, by heart.

"One of the most fuzzy of all superstitions is Friday the 13th," she claims. "More than $300 million is lost to business because people stay at home on these days, and yet even I can't give you a concrete reason why they should be so afraid."

"The best-known theory on why Friday is ill-fated is that Friday is supposed to be the day on which Eve tempted Adam with the fatal apple. Now, honey, do you believe that nonsense?"

"No," I said. "Well, then, let's try another excuse. There is also the story that Friday was named after Frigg (or Frigga), the Norse Goddess of marriage. Later she was confused with the Goddess of Love, Freya, who in turn became identified with Friday."

"Now, when the Norsemen and Germanic tribes became Christians, Freya was supposed to have been banished to the mountains as a witch, and Friday came to be called the 'Witches Sabbath.' For it was believed that on this day each week, 12 witches and the devil met - 13 evil spirits, you see, holding clubby sessions on Friday. Do you go for that?"

"No." "Okay," says Ms. deLys. "I guarantee that, if you don't believe Friday is inherently bad, you're not going to like the theories on the number 13. Anyway, here goes: when man first learned to count, he added up his 10 fingers, and counting his feet as two units, he came up with the number 12. NEW YORK (AP) — While it is still true that stock market investors live in the future, the trouble with today's market could be the past.

Many shareholders seem unable or unwilling to forget it. Instead of looking to their future profits they are looking back to what happened to them in 1974 and even in 1969, and vowing it won't happen again. That attitude can be seen in the reluctance of some individual investors, in the activities of investment clubs and in the redemption ratios of mutual funds.

One investment club recently wrote to the National Association of Investment Clubs that "Our members lost interest and this led to most members wanting to disband when the Dow Jones returned to its recent level of 990." In an editorial in its magazine, "Better Investing," the association, which lost many clubs in the 1974 decline, called the attitude disturbing and short-sighted.

"They fail to look past their original water line to the possible crests the market could reach based upon current factors and market history, it said, concluding:

"NAIC's experience covering 25 years would qualify us to give at least this much advice: Look ahead and decide if you can see more positives than negatives in the years to come before you conclude that breaking even is the time to quit."

Mutual funds apparently are experiencing the same problem. While old funds continue to make sales, and new ones enter the competition, redemptions over-all continue unsatisfactorily high, often exceeding sales.

The Quarterly Mutual Fund Record shows that sales of 174 funds rose in June to $321.3 million from $240.6 million in May, but that cash-ins totaled $598.6 million, for a net loss of $277.3 million.

that promise self-help.

"One thing can be said for the superstitious person: he doesn't need to spend much money. He can buy a good luck charm, such as a rabbit's foot (Americans spend $130 million a year on such superstitious objects), and he gets by cheap. As long as someone believes that an omen is really lucky, he gains confidence from his 'crutch.' Good luck charms are 'the poor man's tranquilizers.'"

Miss deLys has no sympathy whatever with the thousands of Americans who will be staying home today, afraid to venture out on Friday the 13th.

"Why should I sympathize with them?" she leers. "You're working, I'm working. They get a long weekend ..."

The reluctance of individual investors to participate directly in the market is even better documented especially by the New York Stock Exchange census which shows a 5 million loss in the number of investors during the 1970s.

The origins of the decline in participation can be traced back to the excesses of the 1960s, when the market promised more than it could deliver. Disillusionment followed.

Particularly hard hit at that time were the funds, many of which had participated in the so-called performance game, in which quick profits were sought—often at the expense of long-term stability.

Some investors returned to the market in the next few years, but then they got caught in the precipitous decline of 1974. Almost drowned twice, they were happy simply to regain the surface.

Meanwhile the stock market, as measured by the popular averages, has been stalled since January, when it finally reached its old high water mark.

It would seem now that if the market is to have any kind of a surge those reluctant investors will have to plunge back in again.

Tank Plan Draws Fire From Solon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's decision to develop a new hybrid U.S.-German tank, rather than permit each country to design its own tanks, drew heavy fire Tuesday from members of the House Armed Services Committee.

Chairman Melvin Price, D-Ill., told Army Secretary Martin Hoffmann and Deputy Secretary of Defense William Clements that the committee was concerned about allegations the new tank would cost an additional $1 billion and delay production eight months to two years.

Hoffmann testified the best estimate for additional cost is $789 million. He said he hopes the delay will be only four months. The cost estimate had been $4.9 billion for the U.S. tank program.

He said the $789 million is the estimated cost for a turret that would carry a 105 millimeter gun at first and later switch to a German or British 120 millimeter gun in 3½ to 5 years.

He said it is "altogether possible" that within the next decade the 120-millimeter gun will be needed to penetrate Soviet tanks.

The Army secretary also made clear the U.S.-German tank is likely to have an advanced turbine engine rather than a diesel engine, but said the engine would not add to the overall cost.

Although the United States and Germany will agree on nearly identical designs for the tank, each country will build its own tanks.

The Army reportedly has decided to build the American tank, to be known as the XM1, at a plant in Lima, Ohio.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My father was a football player and a perfect physical specimen. Suddenly, at the age of 61, he had a stroke. Now his left side is paralyzed. Do you think that after six months there is still a possibility that he will again be able to function normally?

Mrs. H. T., Mich.

Dear Mrs. T.:

There are many questions that remain unanswered about strokes. Yet an enormous amount of information has accumulated in the past 35 years about the prevention of stroke and the rehabilitation of stroke victims.

In order to get a better comprehension of what a stroke is let me go into some detail about the anatomy and physiology of the body.

In normal health, the heart pumps blood to all parts of the body and keeps the organs nourished with a sufficient amount of blood and oxygen.

The blood vessels from the heart pass through the neck and into the brain, supplying it with the life-giving oxygen, without which no organ can possibly survive.

Any interference with the free flow of blood to the brain can cause a cerebro-vascular-accident (CVA), which is known as a "stroke."

A hemorrhage due to the rupture or tear of a blood vessel is a major cause. Sometimes a spasm of the blood vessel, due to excess tobacco or to drugs, can temporarily interfere with the free flow of blood.

A blood clot, narrowing of a blood vessel due to arteriosclerosis, the rupture of an aneurysm, all interfere with the free flow of blood to the brain.

The degree of incapacitation depends entirely on the part of the brain that is deprived of blood and oxygen. Specific parts of the brain determine our capacity to speak, to understand the written or spoken word, and the ability to move certain muscles of the body.

If any of these areas are deprived of blood and oxygen, the result becomes apparent.

Even after six months, with concentrated rehabilitation, exercises and drugs, there is still a possibility that your father may regain some of his capacity to function.

In those cases where the damage is thought to be fixed and irreversible, patients today are given a greater sense of hope to replace despair if active re-educational techniques are used.

Dr. Howard Rusk, founder of the Institute for Rehabilitative Medicine in New York City, is acknowledged to be the world pioneer in physical and psychological rehabilitation of stroke victims.

His basic concept is that despair can be replaced with encouragement and hope.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

The 1976 Pickaway County Fair has just ended and now it is time for next year's fair planning to get underway. I must say that those few fairboard members that set up the whole thing, while others just sat back and looked on, deserve a big pat on the back as well as more recognition than they got.

I agree this year's fair wasn't really bad, but it wasn't as good as it should have been. Next year's fair can be a lot better if we have more help getting it planned and set-up. The 4-H agents should get on the ball and get organized. There are a lot of young people who should get a little more involved. The Junior Leaders didn't even have the opportunity to say "I helped," this year. The fairboard can't do everything, the 4-H agents have other obligations, the 4-H advisors don't want to get involved, and the junior fairboard will only do their share and sometimes not even that.

I realize a lot of people work and can't help with it like they should, but hundreds of others can and won't. Look at the farmers who take time out from their very important work to go in there and spray barns, set-up bleachers and wait on everyone else hand and foot. It's time for city people to do something too. It's everybody's fair.

Remember the Junior Leader's also. I thank You for your time and hope you take the above into consideration when it's time to elect new fairboard members and any extra effort you yourself could put forth to make the fair worth coming to. After all, our 4-H motto is "To Make The Best Better." It's up to you!

Thank You,
CHRISTINA MARTIN

A Page Of Opinion

Economic Agreement

When both Congress and the White House are in substantial agreement on the course of the economy, and that course is favorable, even a confirmed pessimist should be obliged to reassess his position.

In its most bullish assessment since the recession, the Congressional Budget Office says the economy appears to be on a sound recovery at least through the end of 1977, and in fact "it may be possible to sustain the expansion for some time beyond 1977." As recently as March, the congressional panel was skeptical whether the drop in unemployment would continue.

Now, the budget office sees both inflation and unemployment as continuing problems, but well within the guidelines of a moderate recovery. Inflation should range between 5 and 7 per cent through 1977, the agency predicts and unemployment continue dropping from its present 7.5 per cent of the work force to 6 per cent by the end of next year.

Those are almost exactly the forecasts of the Ford administration. Considering frequent political differences between the legislative and executive branches, agreement on where the economy is heading in the next year and a half is reassuring.

Friday The 13th Is Costly

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — Today is Friday the 13th — but who's counting? Oh ... really?

"Ah, yes, superstition is more rampant than ever in this country," says America's leading authority on the subject, "but it's no longer a simple matter that can always be helped by rabbit's feet and four-leaf clovers. Not these days. Now we have active demonology, which is very dangerous, my dear. And people have fears and apprehensions that go beyond good luck omens."

Claudia deLys was born in India 81 years ago, and has spent most of her life studying the whys, wherefores and whoduns of superstition; she had donated her research file of 100,000 omens of good and evil to Syracuse University — but she knows them, still, by heart.

"One of the most fuzzy of all superstitions is Friday the 13th," she claims. "More than $300 million is lost to business because people stay at home on these days, and yet even I can't give you a concrete reason why they should be so afraid."

"The best-known theory on why Friday is ill-fated is that Friday is supposed to be the day on which Eve tempted Adam with the fatal apple. Now, honey, do you believe that nonsense?"

"No," I said. "Well, then, let's try another excuse. There is also the story that Friday was named after Frigg (or Frigga), the Norse Goddess of marriage. Later she was confused with the Goddess of Love, Freya, who in turn became identified with Friday."

"Now, when the Norsemen and Germanic tribes became Christians, Freya was supposed to have been banished to the mountains as a witch, and Friday came to be called the 'Witches Sabbath.' For it was believed that on this day each week, 12 witches and the devil met — 13 evil spirits, you see, holding clubby sessions on Friday. Do you go for that?"

"No." "Okay," says Ms. deLys. "I guarantee that, if you don't believe Friday is inherently bad, you're not going to like the theories on the number 13. Anyway, here goes: when man first learned to count, he added up his 10 fingers, and counting his feet as two units, he came up with the number 12. Beyond that lay the vague, mysterious unknown, in the form of number 13. Is that clear?"

"I think so." "But consider this," the expert went on. "Though 13 is supposed to be a dreaded number, the American dollar bill is simply laden with symbols of thirteenthism. Turn George Washington over on his face, and look at the two seals on the back of the bill. On the left you'll find an incomplete, or truncated pyramid, shorn off abruptly at the top of the 13th step. On the right is the American bald eagle, holding in one talon 13 arrows and, in the other, 13 leaves with 13 berries on an olive branch. Over the eagle's head are 13 stars."

Claudia said with a laugh, "I like to tell superstitious people that if they're afraid of thirteens, they'd better avoid taking money. Sometimes this convinces them they're being silly. But not often enough."

Eagleton Rips USDA Inaccuracy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton has told Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz that the Agriculture Department was less than "responsible and accurate" in its decision a year ago to locate a new midwestern meat and poultry inspection laboratory in Lincoln, Neb.

Eagleton, a Democrat from Missouri, said Wednesday that he has asked Butz to reconsider the decision made by the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS).

The senator said St. Louis, the present site of such a laboratory, is a better choice and that data supporting this conclusion was ignored.

John M. Damgard, deputy assistant secretary for marketing and consumer services, said: "The budget people looked over the APHIS analysis and they agreed... It was the best choice from a management standpoint" when the decision was made in August 1975.

Other USDA officials noted that some politically tinged arguments were expected because the Nebraska congressional delegation consists of Republicans while all but one Missouri congressman are Democrats.

Damgard said politics was not involved in the decision.

The site was announced Aug. 28, with operations then scheduled to begin in a year. APHIS said special space, ventilation and other physical requirements were involved in whatever building was chosen.

The 30-employee laboratory is to provide back-up services for the inspectors of meat, other foods and animals in the Midwest.

In looking for a replacement for facilities now at Omaha, St. Louis and Beltsville, Md., APHIS conducted a study that began with 25 Midwest locations in 1974 and was narrowed to six.

Connally Fading

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Although he is the top vote getter among Indiana delegates for the Republican vice presidential nomination, John Connally has slipped from his support of one month ago.

An Associated Press survey shows that of the Hoosier delegates replying to a poll, 11 favored Connally for the No. 2 spot. That compares with 19 a month earlier.

Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania, picked by Ronald Reagan as a running mate, drew nine votes. Reagan was named for the No. 2 spot by six Ford delegates. Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee got three votes.

Connally's dip in support from a survey the last week in July apparently stemmed from Reagan naming his vice presidential choice and renewed discussion of the former Texas governor's role in the Nixon administration.

I agree this year's fair wasn't really bad, but it wasn't as good as it should have been. Next year's fair can be a lot better if we have more help getting it planned and set-up. The 4-H agents should get on the ball and get organized. There are a lot of young people who should get a little more involved. The Junior Leaders didn't even have the opportunity to say "I helped," this year. The fairboard can't do everything, the 4-H agents have other obligations, the 4-H advisors don't want to get involved, and the junior fairboard will only do their share and sometimes not even that.

I realize a lot of people work and can't help with it like they should, but hundreds of others can and won't. Look at the farmers who take time out from their very important work to go in there and spray barns, set-up bleachers and wait on everyone else hand and foot. It's time for city people to do something too. It's everybody's fair.

Remember the Junior Leader's also. I thank you for your time and hope you take the above into consideration when it's time to elect new fairboard members and any extra effort you yourself could put forth to make the fair worth coming to. After all, our 4-H motto is "To Make The Best Better." It's up to you!

Thank You,
CHRISTINA MARTIN

Initiative Actions Cover Nation's Ballots

By STEVE LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer

Issues ranging from legalized betting on dog racing to safety restrictions for nuclear power plants are on the ballot across the country these days in a system of direct democracy that is growing in popularity.

An Associated Press survey shows voters in at least 12 states will act on citizen initiatives in November. Election officials and representatives of citizens' groups say they have noticed an increased use of initiatives, although the rate of success varies widely.

"Maybe it's the war, maybe it's the environment, maybe it's Watergate," said Scott FitzRandolph, California director of Common Cause. "I think the polls indicate that while there is apathy among the general public there is more interest (in government) among the activists."

In California, there have been an average of 16 initiative drives a year for the last five years. That compares with an average six a year during the 10 years before that.

In Missouri there wasn't a single initiative petition submitted to the secretary of state's office between 1962 and 1970. Four petitions have been turned in this year and are awaiting certification.

There are a record-setting four initiatives on the ballot this fall in Massachusetts and voters in both Florida and Illinois apparently will see their first initiatives in November.

In Colorado, a spokeswoman for the secretary of state's office said, "... People are getting more and more interested. They're finding out what they can do."

Twenty-three states, most of them in the West, have some sort of system that allows voters to place laws or constitutional amendments — or both — on the ballot.

Some initiative laws limit subject matter or give legislators a veto over voter action; others are wide-open systems where the public decision is final.

"People are only limited by their imagination," says Larry Bevins, assistant manager of elections in Oregon, one of a handful of states where initiatives are heavily used.

Critics contend initiatives are a poor way to legislate, that the ballot measures are not well written and are too complicated for voters to understand. But election officials in several states say the system has worked well.

"Some of our best measures were accomplished through the initiative process," says Bill Linklater, an assistant Oregon attorney general.

Those measures include laws giving women the right to vote, instituting a workmen's compensation system and protecting scenic waterways and steelhead fish, Linklater said.

Some officials say initiative systems are too restrictive and should be opened up. Joyce Koupal, head of People's Lobby, a California citizens' group that specializes in initiative drives, agrees.

"Initiatives use to be used a lot when the system got started," she said. "Then the other side got smart and started writing laws that took it out of the hands of the average citizen."

Those laws in California included a $200 filing fee and a time limit on signature gathering.

In most states the number of signatures needed to qualify a petition is a percentage of the number of votes cast for governor in a recent election.

In California it takes 8 per cent of the vote cast for governor in the last general election to qualify a constitutional amendment and 5 per cent to qualify a proposed statute.

"The signature requirement is fairly high but for good reason," says Caren Daniels, spokeswoman for the California secretary of state. "It costs a lot of money to put something on the ballot."

Not only is it difficult to put an initiative on the ballot; it's also difficult to get it passed.

Of the 51 initiatives qualified for the ballot in Oregon since 1944 only 23 — 45 per cent — passed. In California the figure is 24 per cent over the last 10 years.

In both states the success figure is much higher — around 70 per cent — for measures put on the ballot by the legislature.

Linklater says legislative measures have a better chance of passing because they have at least a majority of the state's lawmakers behind them. That's not always the case with initiatives, he adds.

This year also marks the first time there has been a coordinated effort by citizens groups to put measures dealing with the same subject — nuclear power plant safety, for example — on the ballot in several states.

"I think what's happened is that people have begun to understand the political power that comes from using initiatives on a consistent basis," said Faith Keating, director of Western Bloc, the group promoting the nuclear initiatives.

Western Bloc is a partnership of organizations that grew out of a 1974 conference of citizens' groups held by Ralph Nader in Washington D.C. Although Nader took part in discussions that brought about Western Bloc, group officials say the organization is not affiliated with the consumer advocate.

Western Bloc groups have launched nuclear initiatives petition drives in 10 states and thus far have qualified measures in Colorado and Oregon for the November ballot.

The measures vary from state to state but all contain one common requirement: a legislative decision that nuclear power is safe before more atomic power plants can be built.

A similar measure, not sponsored by Western Bloc, was defeated in California in June.

On Books And Activities At The Library

If you're one of those people who think libraries are great places to go for a good mystery, romance or adventure story, you're absolutely right! BUT-you should also know that libraries are great places to go for information in all fields. So, let's talk about some of the new non-fiction that has arrived this week.

Nothing is quite as important as good health. Sometimes reading about a problem in layman's terms can help a person understand more clearly what his doctor is explaining. The PCPL has an outstanding collection of health and medical books.

Epilepsy is no longer the untalked-about disease. Modern medicine has made great progress in help for the epileptic. "Seizures, Epilepsy and Your Child" by Dr. Jorge C. Lagos and "About Epilepsy" by Donald Scott are two new books worth your attention.

Diabetes is another disease people are learning to live with. "Diabetes Explained: a Layman's Guide" by Dr. I. J. Laufer and "The Diabetic at Work and Play" by Dr. Buris Boshell offer valuable up-to-date information on this problem.

Lawrence Galton sheds new light on an often ignored problem of human health in his new book "The Disguised Disease: Anemia."

More than 200,000 Americans die annually from stroke. "Strokes and Their Prevention" by Dr. Arthur Ancowitz tells you how to cope with this statistic.

Richard Stiller's new book discusses a friend in disguise. "Pain" tells you why it hurts, where it hurts and when it hurts.

How many times have you had your day spoiled by aching feet? "On Your Feet" by Elizabeth Roberts, a practicing podiatrist, tells you how to maintain foot health and comfort from infancy to old age.

And finally, "The Great American Medicine Show" by Spencer Klaw provides a searching diagnosis of what is wrong with the American system of medical care.

There are so many things to do and so many books to show you how! If you're really into handicrafts, you may be thinking of turning it into a profit. "Selling Your Handicrafts" by William Garrison and "A Successful Business of Your Own" by Barbara Griffin could help you do just that.

New school clothes will be no problem for you if you check out "Complete guide to Sewing" from Reader's Digest. It's loaded with good information for the gal who sews.

If you've ever wanted to train a porpoise, explore a cave or study the heavens, we have the book for you. Try "Lads Before the Wind" by Karen Pryor for an adventure in porpoise training. "American Caves and Caving" by William Halliday will help you with techniques and pleasures of cave exploration. "The Telescope Handbook and Star Atlas" by Neale Howard will clarify the heavens for you.

History buffs can study the "Survivors of the Stone Age" in a new book by Rebecca Marcus. "The Thirteenth Tribe" by Arthur Koestler traces the history of the ancient Khazar Empire, a major but almost forgotten power in Eastern Europe. For a more modern look at history, "The Crucial Years" by Hanson Baldwin looks at the world from 1939-1941.

An interest in athletics might prompt you to read "Behind Closed Doors" by Bob Wolfe. It's an exclusive look at the world of high-priced pros. "Life on the Run" by Bill Bradley is a candid look at that famous basketball star in his own words.

Some interesting new "how to" titles run the gamut from enjoying a country to facing death. "Switzerland" by Hughes looks at the country of the Alps. "Death: the Final Stage of Growth" by Kubler-Ross presents some new ideas.

"Managing Through People" by Dale Carnegie explains good management while "How to Avoid Alimony" by Maurice Franks speaks for itself.

Religion and mystery are represented by "The New Charismatics" by Quebedeaux. John Godwin's "Unsolved: the World of the Unknown" is a captivating presentation.

Incidentally, "Alcohol: the Delightful Poison", has quite a history as told by Alice Fleming.

Emily Dickinson, Charlotte Bronte and Walter Winchell are subjects of new biographies.

"Great Historic Places of Europe" from Horizon and "The Battle of Bunker's Hill" add good browsing titles.

Try a change of pace this week. Visit our non-fiction shelves and enlarge your world.

Marijuana Harvested

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Butler County authorities have harvested a second crop of cultivated marijuana in 10 days and are working to dry up the local source.

"We may not get it all, but we'll drive up the price," said Butler County Sheriff Robert R. Walton.

Authorities cut approximately 900 pounds of high grade marijuana plants from a field north of Seven Mile, Ohio on Wednesday.

"Butler County Sheriff Robert R. Walton said that in both cases the fields had been cultivated and some of the plants cut Wednesday were eight feet high.

Walton said authorities had previously thought that the hallucinogen had been brought in from other areas but have since learned there is much under cultivation in the county.

"This was not growing wild. This was brought in and cultivated."

In an effort to keep society news current, The Herald has established the following policy concerning wedding news:

Wedding forms may be obtained at The Herald from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

It would be helpful to have the wedding form completed and returned with a picture three days before the wedding.

The Herald will make every effort to publish the story and picture on the next day of publication following the wedding providing the forms and picture are returned before the wedding.

No bridal pictures and stories will be accepted if submitted later than 30 days following the ceremony.

Circleville High School Class Of 1936 Reunites

CIRCLEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 1936

The graduating class of 1936 from Circleville High School recently held a 40th reunion at the Wardell Party Home with 64 members and spouses in attendance. A fellowship hour renewing acquaintances and reminiscing preceded the four course dinner. The tables were decorated with school houses and lighted tapers of red and silver, the class colors. The class flower was the American Beauty Rose and the motto: "By our own efforts we seek to rise."

Upon arrival each class member was presented a name tag with their graduation picture inserted and a record of each member and their present addresses.

The invocation was given by Richard Plum, who also led in remembrance of the 13 deceased class members. The program was highlighted by the reading of letters received from members unable to attend. Correspondence was received from Jane Drum Rhynard, Ann Vlerebome Mader, Eleanor Brown Melton, Marye Essick Tobin, Alice Griner Tytell, Evelyn Wolfe Rankin and John William Towers. Ned Harden presented slides of various groups and teachers and of Frank Fischer to whom the 1936 Annual was dedicated.

Honored guests for the reunion were Miss Elma Rains and Dr. and Mrs. Roy Bowen. Dr. Bowen is currently professor of drama at the Ohio State University. Each spoke briefly of their years as teachers in Circleville. Each class member gave short excerpts of their lives for the past 40 years.

The committee who shared in preparing the memorable evening were: Dorothy Beaty Wardell, Betty Binkley Goeller, Mary E. Groce Radcliffe, Ned Harden, Richard Plum and Cecil Andrews.

Elizabeth Groce Radcliffe.

SUMMER SUPPER

Manhattan Clam Chowder, salad, homemade bread, skillet lemon puff.

SKILLET LEMON PUFF

1/4 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
1/2 tablespoon flour
1/8 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
Grated rind of 1 lemon
5 tablespoons lemon juice
3 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups milk

Beat together the butter, flour, 3/4 cup of the sugar, salt, lemon rind and lemon juice. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in remaining sugar until stiff.

Beat egg yolks until thickened and lemon color; add to lemon mixture and beat to blend. Beat in a large spoonful of the whites; fold in remaining whites. Turn into six 6-ounce custard cups. Bake in a pre-heated electric skillet at 375 degrees with cups set on a wire rack or jar caps (no water is needed) until a cake tester inserted in the top part comes out clean — about 40 minutes. Chill. Unmold. May be served with whipped cream. There will be a cakelike top and a custard bottom layer. Makes 6 servings.

BACKYARD FARE

Hamburgers, Railroad Slaw, Melon Cookies.

Railroad Slaw

The famous Fred Harvey recipe, but with exact measurements.

3 cups firmly packed thinly shredded green cabbage
2 tablespoons minced onion
1/4 cup sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon celery seed
1/4 cup white vinegar
1/4 cup peanut oil

Sprinkle the cabbage with the onion and sugar. In a small saucepan whisk together the remaining ingredients; stirring often, bring to a boil; pour at once over the cabbage; mix thoroughly. Cover and chill at least 4 hours before serving; keeps well for as long as 5 days. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Quotes Heard By Morning Circle

Members of Morning Circle of Calvary United Methodist Church met recently in the home of Mrs. Earl Millirons, Jefferson Addition.

A variety of doughnuts, orange and tomato juice, coffee and tea, were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Evelyn Hensley.

Mrs. Gertrude Shasteen, president, welcomed all members and extended a special welcome to Mrs. Eloise Purdy, the wife of the church's new pastor, the Rev. Eugene Purdy.

Mrs. Manley Carothers presented the program and used scripture from II Corinthians 6:14-18. In keeping with the bicentennial an article entitled "The Red, White And Blue" was read.

Several quotes were given with each having an object lesson. The last was of an old shoe wrapped in newspapers. Mrs. Carothers displayed the shoe and told members to look at the tongue. She said it worked back and forth too much and was all worn out and continued by telling about the different parts of the shoe and what purpose they had served. She concluded by saying that the shoe was worn out in the service of its master and that she hoped everyone would wear out in the service of their master and not rust out.

Mrs. Shasteen conducted the business session. Projects were discussed and committee reports heard.

A natural.

The Circleville Herald, Friday August 13, 1976

Allison Family Reunion Held At Binkley Home

The 9th Allison family reunion was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Binkley, Route 2, Amanda. The Rev. Bruce Seymour said the grace before the noon carry-in dinner.

The afternoon was spent visiting and playing games. The day was closed with a business meeting conducted by Charles Allison. Elected as officers for the coming year are: Craig Allison, Circleville, president; Rev. Seymour, Rockyridge, vice-president; Mrs. Donald Davis, Canal Winchester, secretary, and the Rev. Howard Allison, South Bloomfield, historian. It was voted to have the 1977 reunion at the Binkley home again.

Prizes were awarded to Howard Allison, the oldest person present; Dale Thompson and family, traveling the farthest distance, and Michael Paul Allison, the youngest.

Family members present for the day's events were: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allison, Kim Allison, Craig Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allison, Brad, Brian, Melissa, Paula and Michael Paul; Guy Allison and grandchildren, Richard and Sheila Lutz; Mrs. Doris Pearce, Melinda, Greg and Dwight, all of Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gail Goldsberry, Shelly and Marsha, Stoutsville; Mr. and Mrs. Rodger Binkley, Vicki, Steve, Jackie, Tracy and Joyce, Amanda; Mrs. Lelia Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Thompson, South Bloomfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Seitz, Londonderry.

Guests were Diane See and Tim Hartinger of Circleville, Charles Stevens, Royalton, and Linda Shaffer, Amanda.

Dollison Family Reunion Held At Logan Elm Park

The 5th annual Dollison reunion was held recently at Logan Elm Park with 105 present. A picnic dinner was served at 12:30 p.m. and the remainder of the afternoon was spent playing games.

Gifts were given to Ronald Dollison, the oldest person present, and Jennifer Tobin, three month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Tobin, the youngest. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Dean.

Thirty-four of those present were from the town of Holland in Ohio. Others were from Circleville, Columbus and Chillicothe.

They were: Ralph Dollison, Ruth and Bob; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Shaffer, Tammy and Ralph; Mrs. Linda Giffin and Brian; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dollison Jr., Lynn, Mike, Peggy and Donna; Bob Roe; Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Dean; Frank Brogan; Sandy Morris; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Tobin, Janey and Jennifer.

Diane Turnage, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Dollison, Mrs. Shirley Dollison, Donna, Lisa, and Dawn; Alice Davis, Kevin Reed and Bill; Tammy and Amy Davis, Linda Pollock, Mr. and Mrs. Sharon Pravo, Sandy, Chuck, Steve and Teresa; Fran Mallory, Mary and Bobbie; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dollison.

In an effort to keep society news current, The Herald has established the following policy concerning wedding news:

Wedding forms may be obtained at The Herald from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

It would be helpful to have the wedding form completed and returned with a picture three days before the wedding.

The Herald will make every effort to publish the story and picture on the next day of publication following the wedding providing the forms and picture are returned before the wedding.

No bridal pictures and stories will be accepted if submitted later than 30 days following the ceremony.

Circleville High School Class Of 1936 Reunites

CIRCLEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 1936

The graduating class of 1936 from Circleville High School recently held a 40th reunion at the Wardell Party Home with 64 members and spouses in attendance. A fellowship hour renewing acquaintances and reminiscing preceded the four course dinner. The tables were decorated with school houses and lighted tapers of red and silver, the class colors. The class flower was the American Beauty Rose and the motto: "By our own efforts we seek to rise."

Upon arrival each class member was presented a name tag with their graduation picture inserted and a record of each member and their present addresses.

The invocation was given by Richard Plum, who also led in remembrance of the 13 deceased class members. The program was highlighted by the reading of letters received from members unable to attend. Correspondence was received from Jane Drum Rhynard, Ann Vlerobome Mader, Eleanor Brown Melton, Marye Essick Tobin, Alice Griner Tytell, Evelyn Wolfe Rankin and John William Towers. Ned Harden presented slides of various groups and teachers and of Frank Fischer to whom the 1936 Annual was dedicated.

Honored guests for the reunion were Miss Elma Rains and Dr. and Mrs. Roy Bowen. Dr. Bowen is currently professor of drama at the Ohio State University. Each spoke briefly of their years as teachers in Circleville. Each class member gave short excerpts of their lives for the past 40 years.

The committee who shared in preparing the memorable evening were: Dorothy Beaty Wardell, Betty Binkley Goeller, Mary E. Groce Radcliffe, Ned Harden, Richard Plum and Cecil Andrews.

Elizabeth Groce Radcliffe.

2nd Row — Elma Rains, Roy Bowen, Dick Plum, Jane Littleton Glitt, Cecil Andrews, Verneal Thomas, Ellen Clark England, Mary Mavis Perry, Margaret Butler Brigner, Marjorie Mader Myers, Margaret Davis Bost and Willard Friley.

Back Row — Jim Henderson, John Jenkins, Fred Grant, John McGinnis, Hildeburn Jones, Charles Styers, Earl Lanman and Joe Jenkins.

SUMMER SUPPER

Manhattan Clam Chowder, salad, homemade bread, skillet lemon puff.

SKILLET LEMON PUFF

1/4 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
1/2 tablespoon flour
1/8 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
Grated rind of 1 lemon
5 tablespoons lemon juice
3 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups milk

Beat together the butter, flour, 3/4 cup of the sugar, salt, lemon rind and lemon juice. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in remaining sugar until stiff.

Beat egg yolks until thickened and lemon color; add to lemon mixture and beat to blend. Beat in a large spoonful of the whites; fold in remaining whites. Turn into six 6-ounce custard cups. Bake in a pre-heated electric skillet at 375 degrees with cups set on a wire rack or jar caps (no water is needed) until a cake tester inserted in the top part comes out clean — about 40 minutes. Chill. Unmold. May be served with whipped cream. There will be a cakelike top and a custard bottom layer. Makes 6 servings.

BACKYARD FARE

Hamburgers, Railroad Slaw, Melon Cookies.

Railroad Slaw

The famous Fred Harvey recipe, but with exact measurements.

3 cups firmly packed thinly shredded green cabbage
2 tablespoons minced onion
1/4 cup sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon celery seed
1/4 cup white vinegar
1/4 cup peanut oil

Sprinkle the cabbage with the onion and sugar. In a small saucepan whisk together the remaining ingredients; stirring often, bring to a boil; pour at once over the cabbage; mix thoroughly. Cover and chill at least 4 hours before serving; keeps well for as long as 5 days. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Veterans Questions Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week, the Circleville Herald will publish a series of Questions and Answers of interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information on any question concerning his Veterans Administration Benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer at 219 South Court Street.

(Q.) I am the wife of a veteran who has a 30 per cent service connected disability. Am I eligible for treatment at a VA hospital?

(A.) No. VA provides medical treatment only to eligible veterans.

(Q.) Because of my husband's disability it is difficult and hazardous for him to travel alone, and he has been notified to report to a distant Army base for a periodic checkup to determine his status on the Temporary Disability Retired List. If I drove him to his appointment and return, can I be reimbursed for my travel expenses?

(A.) The Comptroller General has ruled that travel expenses of an escort for a disabled military member under those conditions are reimbursable.

(Q.) Can I buy a VA repossessed home if I am not a veteran?

(A.) Yes, VA sells repossessed homes to any credit-worthy individual, veteran or non-veteran.

(Q.) As the widow of a World War I Veteran drawing a VA pension, can I also receive Social Security Benefits, without losing my VA Pension?

(A.) Yes, so long as you do not exceed income limitations.

(Q.) Exactly what are VA regulations concerning Education Benefits under the GI Bill?

(A.) Regulations state that a veteran discharged after June 1, 1966 has eligibility for 10 years after release. This means, that he must complete his education program in that 10 year period. He is entitled to one and a half months for each month or fraction thereof, of service, not to exceed 36 months of eligibility time. A veteran with 36 months of eligibility time may receive up to nine (9) additional months to pursue an undergraduate college degree only.

Wing-Walking Proves New Experience To Skydiver

DETROIT (AP) — Wingwalking is an unforgettable way to get a big breath of fresh air. It's like standing on top of a ladder while somebody shakes the legs. But the ladder is high enough to reach the windows of an 80-story building — and sways.

It seems easy when you watch 22-year-old Steve Trevor, a soft-spoken pre-med student at the University of California in Irvine, dangling from the wing by his hands and feet and turning upside down as part of his regular act.

The pilot of the act, Joe C. Hughes, 44, of Huntington Beach, Calif., said of Trevor: "I know every one of his moves. If anything ever goes wrong, I'll pull back the stick (sending the plane into a vertical climb) and he'll fall into the cockpit."

Trevor says that standing on his head on the wing of a twirling, looping biplane is "relaxing."

Relaxing? Not exactly, in the opinion of a reporter who is more accustomed to sitting at a typewriter than standing on the wing of a bouncing plane.

The first lesson is that before you learn to wing-walk you must learn to wing-crawl, which you do by clambering through a maze of wires and struts to the top wing of Hughes' red and white biplane.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Teen Can't Adjust To Contact Lenses

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and have a terrible problem. I nagged my mother to get me contact lenses (I wore glasses), and three months ago she finally got me some.

Now I can't wear the contacts because they are just too hard to get used to. They irritate my eyes and I can't keep them in. (They are the hard kind, not soft. It is just terrible, Abby. Kids shouldn't be allowed to get hard contacts because they hurt too much.)

I don't know how to tell my mother. She will get mad at me because she spent a lot of money on them and she didn't want to get them in the first place, but I begged so hard she gave in. Please help me, but don't write back because my mother might get the mail first. Thank you.

REDEYES

DEAR RED EYES: Tell your mother. She'll take you back to the place you bought your contacts for a consultation. Others have become accustomed to the hard lenses, and you probably can, too, if you follow instructions. But first see your eye doctor to find out whether your problem is with your eyes or the contact lenses.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a guy for three years off and on. I've tried to break up with him, but every time I make an attempt, he cries, begs

You jam your feet onto two small metal platforms covered with leather footholds, which don't appear much more substantial than the grips that used to hold your feet to rollerskates as a kid.

The small of your back leans against a hand-size metal brace. A thick canvas belt, which is connected to a metal bar protruding from the wing like a lightning rod, is tightened around your middle. The belt around your waist is your lifeline.

What do you wear to a wingwalk? The same clothes you wear to the office with the addition of a leather aviator helmet and goggles, which sit askew over eyeglasses.

Encouraging you to wave to onlookers, Hughes taxis to the runway, idles the throbbing engine briefly, then kicks on the power. For showmanship, he blows a burst of pink smoke from under the fuselage and barrels down the runway.

From toes to scalp, all your muscles tighten into a bodylength grimace. You almost forget to wave.

The thunder of the propeller and the force of the shove of air against the body at 85 miles an hour are the first surprises. You instinctively brace against the hand-size piece of metal bar in your back, and hope it doesn't break for the first time.

Then the bumping of the runway surrenders to the thumping of your heart and the plane leaves earth.

Instantly the ground gives way to blue sky and clouds and your next surprise comes — the realization that you are actually standing on top of a plane wing in the sky. It is a haunting feeling.

You recall the old days of solid office floors, the lawn, sidewalks, even elevators. Your thoughts wander to loftier things as Hughes banks over a cemetery on the edge of Detroit City Airport.

Hughes circles the airport at about 800 feet and then rapidly descends for a buzz of the field. Your stomach is doing very well — it probably is only 50 feet behind you.

At mid-runway, Hughes yanks the stick and catapults the plane almost vertically back to 800 feet, much to the surprise of the beginner's circulation system.

The air rushes into the lungs, even as you hold your chin to your chest to get out of the draft. For the most part it is fresh air but you experience another dimension you would have missed in a closed-cockpit plane — a whiff from a factory smokestack.

But after the first pass, the flight seems secure. You forget the engine's roar. The wind in your face feels good. Your lifebelt is still as tight as it was when they strapped you in and the metal brace presses comfort because you wedge them in deeper and deeper.

You aren't wing-walking but "wing-standing." For a few moments as you watch the freeways, sky, skyscrapers, homes and clouds, the world is a peaceful place and it is a nice day for professional wing-walkers and with other amateurs. Hughes banked evenly and slowly to the left again, lined us up with the runway, went in and touched down without a bump.

The pilot with the handlebar moustache has worked with three professional wing-walkers and with other amateurs.

"Have you ever wingwalked?" he was asked.

"Not on your life. There aren't enough pilots I'd trust," Hughes winked. "I'm no dummy."

and carries on. He's even threatened to commit suicide, so I get soft-hearted and change my mind. If he were to kill himself because of me, I'd never be able to forgive myself.

I have begged him to go with other girls, but he won't. I've even gone out with other guys, hoping he'd date other girls just to get even, but it hasn't worked. He says if he can't have me, he doesn't want anyone.

Now he's pressuring me to marry him. I don't really want to, but I feel so sorry for him, I'm tempted to say yes. He's not a bad guy. In many ways he's really nice, and I'm sure some girl would feel lucky to have him.

I have told him that I am not in love with him. But he says he doesn't care because he loves me, and after we're married I'll learn to love him. He's 26 and I'm 22. What now?

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Do yourself (and him) a favor and tell him it's not fair to either of you to continue the relationship. Then break it off, once and for all. If you allow him to play on your sympathy, he may eventually wear you down to the point of marriage. Then YOU will be the one who will need the sympathy.

DEAR ABBY: Ever since my mother died 10 years ago I have been wearing her wedding band on my key chain. It will fit my little finger, but I am wondering if it would be proper for me to wear it.

I'm afraid it might provoke a lot of questions. Then what would I say? I don't want to appear a sentimental fool.

MAMMA'S BOY

DEAR BOY: Go ahead and wear it. And what's wrong with being sentimental? If anyone inquires, tell them the truth. I think it's a beautiful idea.

Wing-Walking Proves New Experience To Skydiver

DETROIT (AP) — Wingwalking is an unforgettable way to get a big breath of fresh air.

It's like standing on top of a ladder while somebody shakes the legs. But the ladder is high enough to reach the windows of an 80-story building — and sways.

It seems easy when you watch 22-year-old Steve Trevor, a soft-spoken pre-med student at the University of California in Irvine, dangling from the wing by his hands and feet and turning upside down as part of his regular act.

The pilot of the act, Joe C. Hughes, 44, of Huntington Beach, Calif., said of Trevor: "I know every one of his moves. If anything ever goes wrong, I'll pull back the stick (sending the plane into a vertical climb) and he'll fall into the cockpit."

Trevor says that standing on his head on the wing of a twirling, looping biplane is "relaxing."

Relaxing? Not exactly, in the opinion of a reporter who is more accustomed to sitting at a typewriter than standing on the wing of a bouncing plane.

The first lesson is that before you learn to wing-walk you must learn to wing-crawl, which you do by clambering through a maze of wires and struts to the top wing of Hughes' red and white biplane.

You jam your feet onto two small metal platforms covered with leather footholds, which don't appear much more substantial than the grips that used to hold your feet to rollerskates as a kid.

The small of your back leans against a hand-size metal brace. A thick canvas belt, which is connected to a metal bar protruding from the wing like a lightning rod, is tightened around your middle. The belt around your waist is your lifeline.

What do you wear to a wingwalk? The same clothes you wear to the office with the addition of a leather aviator helmet and goggles, which sit askew over eyeglasses.

Encouraging you to wave to onlookers, Hughes taxis to the runway, idles the throbbing engine briefly, then kicks on the power. For showmanship, he blows a burst of pink smoke from under the fuselage and barrels down the runway.

From toes to scalp, all your muscles tighten into a bodylength grimace. You almost forget to wave.

The thunder of the propeller and the force of the shove of air against the body at 85 miles an hour are the first surprises. You instinctively brace against the hand-size piece of metal bar in your back, and hope it doesn't break for the first time.

Then the bumping of the runway surrenders to the thumping of your heart and the plane leaves earth.

Instantly the ground gives way to blue sky and clouds and your next surprise comes — the realization that you are actually standing on top of a plane wing in the sky. It is a haunting feeling.

You recall the old days of solid office floors, the lawn, sidewalks, even elevators. Your thoughts wander to loftier things as Hughes banks over a cemetery on the edge of Detroit City Airport.

Hughes circles the airport at about 800 feet and then rapidly descends for a buzz of the field. Your stomach is doing very well — it probably is only 50 feet behind you.

At mid-runway, Hughes yanks the stick and catapults the plane almost vertically back to 800 feet, much to the surprise of the beginner's circulation system.

The air rushes into the lungs, even as you hold your chin to your chest to get out of the draft. For the most part it is fresh air but you experience another dimension you would have missed in a closed-cockpit plane — a whiff from a factory smokestack.

But after the first pass, the flight seems secure. You forget the engine's roar. The wind in your face feels good. Your lifebelt is still as tight as it was when they strapped you in and the metal brace presses comfort because you wedge them in deeper and deeper.

You aren't wing-walking but "wing-standing." For a few moments as you watch the freeways, sky, skyscrapers, homes and clouds, the world is a peaceful place and it is a nice day for flying.

Hughes banked evenly and slowly to the left again, lined up with the runway, went in and touched down without a bump.

The pilot with the handlebar moustache has worked with three professional wing-walkers and with other amateurs.

"Have you ever wingwalked?" he was asked.

"Not on your life. There aren't enough pilots I'd trust," Hughes winked. "I'm no dummy."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Teen Can't Adjust To Contact Lenses

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and have a terrible problem. I nagged my mother to get me contact lenses (I wore glasses), and three months ago she finally got me some.

Now I can't wear the contacts because they are just too hard to get used to. They irritate my eyes and I can't keep them in. (They are the hard kind, not soft. It is just terrible, Abby. Kids shouldn't be allowed to get hard contacts because they hurt too much.)

I don't know how to tell my mother. She will get mad at me because she spent a lot of money on them and she didn't want to get them in the first place, but I begged so hard she gave in.

Please help me, but don't write back because my mother might get the mail first. Thank you.

REDEYES

DEAR RED EYES: Tell your mother. She'll take you back to the place you bought your contacts for a consultation. Others have become accustomed to the hard lenses, and you probably can, too, if you follow instructions. But first see your eye doctor to find out whether your problem is with your eyes or the contact lenses.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a guy for three years off and on. I've tried to break up with him, but every time I make an attempt, he cries, begs and carries on. He's even threatened to commit suicide, so I get soft-hearted and change my mind. If he were to kill himself because of me, I'd never be able to forgive myself.

I have begged him to go with other girls, but he won't. I've even gone out with other guys, hoping he'd date other girls just to get even, but it hasn't worked. He says if he can't have me, he doesn't want anyone.

Now he's pressuring me to marry him. I don't really want to, but I feel so sorry for him, I'm tempted to say yes. He's not a bad guy. In many ways he's really nice, and I'm sure some girl would feel lucky to have him.

I have told him that I am not in love with him. But he says he doesn't care because he loves me, and after we're married I'll learn to love him. He's 26 and I'm 22. What now?

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Do yourself (and him) a favor and tell him it's not fair to either of you to continue the relationship. Then break it off, once and for all. If you allow him to play on your sympathy, he may eventually wear you down to the point of marriage. Then YOU will be the one who will need the sympathy.

DEAR ABBY: Ever since my mother died 10 years ago I have been wearing her wedding band on my key chain. It will fit my little finger, but I am wondering if it would be proper for me to wear it.

I'm afraid it might provoke a lot of questions. Then what would I say? I don't want to appear a sentimental fool.

MAMMA'S BOY

DEAR BOY: Go ahead and wear it. And what's wrong with being sentimental? If anyone inquires, tell them the truth. I think it's a beautiful idea.

A youth revival will be held at Pontious United Methodist Church Friday, Saturday and Sunday with services at 7:30 p.m. each evening and also 9:30 a.m. Sunday. The Goad Family Singers will present special music and the featured speaker will be the Rev. Perry Griffith, former Logan Elm High School teacher and football coach.

The Rev. W. Maurice King, associate editor of the "Upper Room" will be the guest speaker at the 10:30 a.m. worship service at Lancaster United Methodist Campground. Joe Stuart and Terry Tyson of Coral Ridge Presbyterian Church, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., will present a concert at 2:30 p.m.

The Rev. Charles Ragland family and quartet will be singing and speaking Sunday morning in the worship service at the Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union. The service will be at 9 a.m. and at 10 a.m. because of the Mount of Praise camp meeting.

W. W. Higgins will be the speaker for the morning service at the First Presbyterian Church. His topic will be "Sorry Charlie."

The Rev. David F. Frazer has chosen "The Garment of Gentleness" as his sermon topic Sunday.

"For Pete's Sake," a film credited as unique in its capacity to reach out to meet the problems of people will be shown 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist Church, State Route 316, Ashville.

Pastor Carl Zehner of Trinity

Lutheran Church has selected "God Promises — If" as the theme of his sermon Sunday.

The Turkey Run Church of Primitive Baptists will be host to the Scioto Association Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the Old High School Building in Ashville. Several ministers are expected to be in attendance. There will be preaching each day at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. with congregational singing.

Circleville First Church of Christ in Christian Union, 436 East Ohio Street, will begin the Sunday School hour at 9:00 a.m. this Sunday, instead of the usual 9:30. The Rev. Joe Jordan will provide the special music, and Pastor H. David Cyrus will bring the message. At 10:30 a.m., the congregation will join the service at the Mount of Praise Camp Meeting.

Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church will have guests from OMS International in the 10:30 a.m. service Sunday morning. The Rev. Burton Biddulph, field director of OMS for Spain, and Dr. Ruben Gil, one of Spain's leading Protestant churchmen will share something of their work in the new Madrid Evangelical Center (International Evangelical Tabernacle) which is the headquarters from which OMS ministries in Spain are coordinated.

Mr. Biddulph, widely recognized as a leader of Protestant missionary activity, was selected in 1972 to begin OMS operations in Spain. He had already served over 25 years in Columbia, South America, a country with Spanish influence, where he saw the formation of the United Biblical Seminary of Columbia and unprecedented growth of the OMS national church, now including over 150 churches and preaching points, a vocational Bible institute, seminary and extension seminary, primary schools, radio ministries and extensive literature distribution. Burton Biddulph began his career in foreign missions after frontline service as a chaplain under General Patton during World War II.

In Spain, Mr. Biddulph is guiding a team of missionaries with the help of a former Falangist politician and journalist, Dr. Ruben Gil, a dynamic convert to Christ and a leading Spanish pastor, evangelist and Bible teacher. Dr. Gil is also the speaker on a 15-minute radio program, "A Challenge to Your Conscience," heard daily over Radio Espana and reaching the entire Iberian peninsula.

Feared Package Proves Harmless

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Charles Manson, convicted mass murderer of actress Sharon Tate and others, received a package that prison officials initially feared was a bomb — but turned out to be a teddy bear and a Polish travel book.

A checking device at a state hospital indicated Tuesday that the package contained wires. Then, a "bomb-sniffing" dog went into a "classic alert" position that suggested a bomb. The five-by-eight-inch package, with a return address in Poland, was carted to a nearby orchard, where police opened it, authorities said Thursday. Manson, 41, has been at Vacaville since May for psychiatric study.

Nun Works With 'Poorest Of Poor'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — To Mother Teresa, the poor are the great ones, the courageous, noble and kind. "Such dignity, such goodness," she says. In them she sees the Divine image. They suffer, yes, but that, too, she says, is like God.

"He made Himself the hungry one, the homeless, naked, unwanted one," she says. "We meet Him in disguise in the faces of the poor."

Mother Teresa, a small, fragile, slightly stooped nun of 67, whose work among the "poorest of the poor" in Calcutta, India, has grown into the worldwide Missionaries of Charity, seems to radiate that same selflessness which she finds in those who have nothing.

A grieving compassion lines her face, and when she smiles, it seems as if the light wells up from some shadowy, unforgotten place of tears.

She was repeatedly referred to as a "saint" at last week's International Eucharistic Congress here and crowds of people trailed her about, seeking to press her hand or simply to touch her white sari, the habit of her order.

Through her, that customary Eastern impulse to share or absorb the "karma" of some holy person by getting near them seemed to have been transported into the West.

"The poor do not want your pity," she says. "They want your love. But do we see them? Do we know them? Are we with them? When we come before God, He will judge us on what we have been to the poor, on what we have done to the poor."

At the Congress, a global gathering of Roman Catholics centered on faith in Christ's real presence in the bread and wine of the eucharist, or holy communion, Mother Teresa gave several talks and interviews.

"People have told us that we spoil the poor with our work," she said. "It is good to have at least one congregation that spoils the poor because everybody is always spoiling the rich."

She told graphic stories of work with the desperately poor, of a family of eight which, on being given some rice, first shared it with hungry neighbors before eating; of a starving woman who died saying "thank you" simply for being picked up from the street and shown some concern.

"She gave me much more than I gave her," Mother Teresa said. "She gave her grateful love." Strangely, she said, that reversed giving is the case with the poor. "They give much more than we give them."

She said that while many in Asia and Africa suffer material poverty, the affluent people of America and Europe suffer from a poverty of their own.

"It is not less painful," she said. "It is the terrible poverty of loneliness, of abandonment, a feeling of being lost. They want to be loved, to be somebody to somebody. It is a poverty of the spirit, a hunger for God."

As a specific example, she cited abortion. "It is very, very great poverty to decide that a child must die that you may live as you wish."

First Lady Greet Hadassah Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty Ford greeted about 160 representatives of the National Board of Hadassah at a White House reception and praised the women's Zionist organization for its humanitarian efforts and "magnificent medical work in Israel." Mrs. Ford spent three-quarters of an hour greeting each of the women individually at the reception Thursday in the Blue Room.

Soon... the Explosion

According to pessimists it won't be long before the world blows itself up. Now that man has the capability to wipe out civilization, they say, his unrestrained instincts will drive him to do just that.

But are man's instincts unrestrained?

The principles of law, morality, responsibility are the foundations of an orderly society. They have their roots in religion.

In the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount, the life and message of Jesus Christ, the hopes and destiny of mankind are expressed. Earnest men have been channeling instincts and spiritual energies to positive purpose for generations.

Next time someone says "soon—the explosion" . . . invite that person to come to church with you and your family.

Church Briefs

A youth revival will be held at Pontious United Methodist Church Friday, Saturday and Sunday with services at 7:30 p.m. each evening and also 9:30 a.m. Sunday. The Goad Family Singers will present special music and the featured speaker will be the Rev. Perry Griffith, former Logan Elm High School teacher and football coach.

The Rev. W. Maurice King, associate editor of the "Upper Room" will be the guest speaker at the 10:30 a.m. worship service at Lancaster United Methodist Campground. Joe Stuart and Terry Tyson of Coral Ridge Presbyterian Church, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., will present a concert at 2:30 p.m.

The Rev. Charles Ragland family and quartet will be singing and speaking Sunday morning in the worship service at the Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union. The service will be at 9 a.m. and at 10 a.m. because of the Mount of Praise camp meeting.

W. W. Higgins will be the speaker for the morning service at the First Presbyterian Church. His topic will be "Sorry Charlie."

The Rev. David F. Frazer has chosen "The Garment of Gentleness" as his sermon topic Sunday.

"For Pete's Sake," a film credited as unique in its capacity to reach out to meet the problems of people will be shown 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist Church, State Route 316, Ashville.

Pastor Carl Zehner of Trinity

Lutheran Church has selected "God Promises — If" as the theme of his sermon Sunday.

The Turkey Run Church of Primitive Baptists will be host to the Scioto Association Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the Old High School Building in Ashville. Several ministers are expected to be in attendance. There will be preaching each day at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. with congregational singing.

Circleville First Church of Christ in Christian Union, 436 East Ohio Street, will begin the Sunday School hour at 9:00 a.m. this Sunday, instead of the usual 9:30. The Rev. Joe Jordan will provide the special music, and Pastor H. David Cyrus will bring the message. At 10:30 a.m., the congregation will join the service at the Mount of Praise Camp Meeting.

Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church will have guests from OMS International in the 10:30 a.m. service Sunday morning. The Rev. Burton Biddulph, field director of OMS for Spain, and Dr. Ruben Gil, one of Spain's leading Protestant churchmen will share something of their work in the new Madrid Evangelism Center (International Evangelical Tabernacle) which is the headquarters from which OMS ministries in Spain are coordinated.

Mr. Biddulph, widely recognized as a leader of Protestant missionary activity, was selected in 1972 to begin OMS operations in Spain. He had already served over 25 years in Columbia, South America, a country with Spanish influence, where he saw the formation of the United Biblical Seminary of Columbia and unprecedented growth of the OMS national church, now including over 150 churches and preaching points, a vocational Bible institute, seminary and extension seminary, primary schools, radio ministries and extensive literature distribution. Burton Biddulph began his career in foreign missions after frontline service as a chaplain under General Patton during World War II.

In Spain, Mr. Biddulph is guiding a team of missionaries with the help of a former Falangist politician and journalist, Dr. Ruben Gil, a dynamic convert to Christ and a leading Spanish pastor, evangelist and Bible teacher. Dr. Gil is also the speaker on a 15-minute radio program, "A Challenge to Your Conscience," heard daily over Radio Espana and reaching the entire Iberian peninsula.

Feared Package Proves Harmless

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Charles Manson, convicted mass murderer of actress Sharon Tate and others, received a package that prison officials initially feared was a bomb — but turned out to be a teddy bear and a Polish travel book.

A checking device at a state hospital indicated Tuesday that the package contained wires. Then, a "bomb-sniffing" dog went into a "classic alert" position that suggested a bomb.

The five-by-eight-inch package, with a return address in Poland, was carted to a nearby orchard, where police opened it, authorities said Thursday.

Manson, 41, has been at Vacaville since May for psychiatric study.

Nun Works With 'Poorest Of Poor'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — To Mother Teresa, the poor are the great ones, the courageous, noble and kind. "Such dignity, such goodness," she says. In them she sees the Divine image. They suffer, yes, but that, too, she says, is like God.

"He made Himself the hungry one, the homeless, naked, unwanted one," she says. "We meet Him in disguise in the faces of the poor."

Mother Teresa, a small, fragile, slightly stooped nun of 67, whose work among the "poorest of the poor" in Calcutta, India, has grown into the worldwide Missionaries of Charity, seems to radiate that same selflessness which she finds in those who have nothing.

A grieving compassion lines her face, and when she smiles, it seems as if the light wells up from some shadowy, forgotten place of tears. She was repeatedly referred to as a "saint" at last week's International Eucharistic Congress here and crowds of people trailed her about, seeking to press her hand or simply to touch her white sari, the habit of her order.

Through her, that customary Eastern impulse to share or absorb the "karma" of some holy person by getting near them seemed to have been transported into the West.

"The poor do not want your pity," she says. "They want your love. But do we see them? Do we know them? Are we with them? When we come before God, He will judge us on what we have been to the poor, on what we have done to the poor."

At the Congress, a global gathering of Roman Catholics centered on faith in Christ's real presence in the bread and wine of the eucharist, or holy communion, Mother Teresa gave several talks and interviews.

"People have told us that we spoil the poor with our work," she said. "It is good to have at least one congregation that spoils the poor because everybody is always spoiling the rich."

She told graphic stories of work with the desperately poor, of a family of eight which, on being given some rice, first shared it with hungry neighbors before eating; of a starving woman who died saying "thank you" simply for being picked up from the street and shown some concern.

"She gave me much more than I gave her," Mother Teresa said. "She gave her grateful love." Strangely, she said, that reversed giving is the case with the poor. "They give much more than we give them."

She said that while many in Asia and Africa suffer material poverty, the affluent people of America and Europe suffer from a poverty of their own.

"It is not less painful," she said. "It is the terrible poverty of loneliness, of abandonment, a feeling of being lost. They want to be loved, to be somebody to somebody. It is a poverty of the spirit, a hunger for God."

As a specific example, she cited abortion. "It is very, very great poverty to decide that a child must die that you may live as you wish."

First Lady Greeted Hadassah Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — Betty Ford greeted about 160 representatives of the National Board of Hadassah at a White House reception and praised the women's Zionist organization for its humanitarian efforts and "magnificent medical work in Israel."

Mrs. Ford spent three-quarters of an hour greeting each of the women individually at the reception Thursday in the Blue Room.

According to pessimists it won't be long before the world blows itself up. Now that man has the capability to wipe out civilization, they say, his unrestrained instincts will drive him to do just that.

But are man's instincts unrestrained?

The principles of law, morality, responsibility are the foundations of an orderly society. They have their roots in religion.

In the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount, the life and message of Jesus Christ, the hopes and destiny of mankind are expressed. Earnest men have been channeling instincts and spiritual energies to positive purpose for generations.

Next time someone says "soon — the explosion" . . . invite that person to come to church with you and your family.

Nuclear Safety Ballot Issue Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Pro-utility forces are sizing up a surprisingly strong consumer coalition during a lull before the possible storm of debate over a nuclear safety ballot issue.

Ohioans for Utility Reform (OUR) showed up last week at the State Office Tower with 382,299 signatures on initiative petitions from all 88 counties. A minimum of 307,201 signatures from at least 44 counties is required to qualify a proposed constitutional amendment for the Nov. 2 ballot.

Utility lobbyists, watching from the fringes of the crowd as the self-styled reformers unloaded their petitions in cardboard boxes, were surprised and impressed by the showing, but not caught off guard.

"They're no amateurs," one utility source said. "They knew what they were doing. You can tell that by the quality of the signatures."

At first glance, he said, the petitions appeared to have a good chance of surviving the scrutiny of election officials who are already in the process of checking the names against lists of enrolled voters.

Up until a few days before the deadline, OUR Chairman Robert Loitz had suggested the anti-utility group might come up short and hold off on filing until the June election next year.

The cushion of extra names is still relatively small and if the petitions fall below the limit during the validation process over the next two weeks, OUR will get a 10-day extension to recoup signatures.

Even if OUR is cleared for the ballot by the secretary of state's office, it could still face a legal challenge on procedural grounds from a high-powered utility coalition. "I'm sure they are going to try everything in the book," says Loitz.

Citizens for Safe, Lower Cost Electricity is still paging through that book but expects to operate on a $1 million budget, backed by big names from business, industry and labor. By comparison, Loitz claims he is heading up a grassroots organization with meager financial backing.

His opponents will draw the lion's share of their support from Ohio's seven electric companies who fear the nuclear amendment could bring construction of atomic power plants to a standstill.

Utility spokesman say their campaign will be educational in tone, aimed at familiarizing Ohioans with the benefits nuclear power and the safeguards presently taken to assure

Bowling Green Man Gets Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ray Anderson, 32, of Bowling Green has been appointed superintendent of Northwest Ohio Development Center, the Ohio Department of Mental Health said.

Anderson will begin his duties at the Toledo center on Sept. 6. The center, one of five prescriptive training centers in the state, will serve the community as a resource to cut down institutionalization and as a transition point for return of inmates to the community.

Anderson has been superintendent of the Wood County Board of Mental Retardation since 1971.

Corn converted to whisky by Ohio pioneers brought from 20 cents to $1 a gallon and sold by the barrel.

ROTARY SPEAKER — Bob Call, left, presented James Megginson, President of Columbia Oil Company, as the guest speaker at the Thursday Rotary Club meeting. Megginson was a seven time water skiing champion at Ohio State University, and taught the Dale Carnegie Course for 15 years. In his address, he built a triangle using attitude, knowledge, and skills as the sides. At next week's meeting, Gordy Coleman, publicity chairman for the Cincinnati Reds, will address the club.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer-actress Diahann Carroll, last regularly seen on TV as a nurse in "Julia," starts her own four-week summer variety show on CBS this Saturday. Alas, the start is not too sturdy.

She's a fine talent. But an advance peep at the scheduled opener indicates its two writers, script consultant, producer and two executive producers didn't quite know what to do with her talent.

They put her in a bubble bath to sing the opening number, a disco thing called "This Is It." Then they had her get dressed, say hello and do a solo comedy skit as an airline ticket agent on the telephone.

The airline skit managed the feat of crashing before takeoff.

Summer variety series often give new comics and singers, of which TV needs more, a chance to break in. Here, the authorities broke in two completely new faces, Telly Savalas and Sammy Davis Jr.

There actually was a newcomer, a singer named Jon Lucien, but he was whisked on and off so fast he could have called in the act.

Telly's top effort had him seated in a big wicker chair. His shirt was open to the sternum. He sang "Who Loves Ya, Baby," a disco song, with much more feeling than Warren G. Harding will ever display.

Telly also was in a skit with Miss Carroll, playing a computer matched suitor. He kept glancing past her while talking, which suggests he either was reading a cue card or seeking his agent.

Sammy Davis Jr. momentarily perked up the proceedings with a rock-gospel song, "John the Baptist," but the tune lasted so long one felt Matthew, Mark and Luke would soon demand equal time.

Fortunately, Sammy later got a second chance and proceeded to light up the show with a short tap dance to an old Count Basie tune, "Cute," and by joining Miss Carroll in a waltzing medley from "Porgy and Bess."

Unfortunately, this was toward the end of the hour.

As for Miss Carroll, she displayed solid class whenever she sang, and her music arrangement, H. B. Barnum, gave both her and the show some good, imaginative support from the orchestra pit.

But Miss C's skit material, her monologue material and the pace of her show lacked snap, crackle or pop. It just lay there.

Longview Probe Brings Dirt To Light

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Overpayment of at least $70,000 to some doctors, patient abuse and heavy use of drugs and alcohol by psychiatric aides were among findings in the Ohio Highway Patrol's investigation into conditions at Longview State Hospital in Cincinnati.

The report of the probe of 21 state mental facilities completed in May was declassified from confidential status Wednesday by Ohio Mental Health Director Timothy B. Moritz.

The patrol said "clear evidence" had been obtained that many Longview medical staff members were being paid for time not spent at the hospital. Some were employed elsewhere while claiming to be present at Longview.

An audit covering 24 pay periods indicated that doctors and other professionals at the institution received a "minimum of $70,000 for time not spent at the hospital."

The OSP said arrangements have been made to recover the funds.

Investigators said some of the more than 1,300 Longview patients were being overmedicated while "some were receiving medication for a problem they did not have or medicine not recommended for their age or diagnosis."

The patrol cited the case of a juvenile receiving medication for epilepsy when he had no such ailment and in adult doses not recommended for children.

Other cases cited were young females receiving injections of a birth control drug without parental consent.

The security chief at Longview was quoted as describing his force "as a pretty shabby operation." Investigators said security personnel were both resentful and uncooperative.

"Extremely poor housekeeping" and misuse of drugs at the ward level, along with the influx of contraband drugs from outside the institution, were also listed.

... Thy Word Is Truth
John 17:17

Throughout the world, many people are studying their Bibles with the sudden and thrilling awareness that the way to Christ and the salvation He offers is clearly revealed. These people are learning that the Word of God is the "seed" (Luke 8:11) and that just as the seed produced Christians in the first century, likewise it will produce Christians in the twentieth century when it is planted in the hearts of honest people. They are seeing also that Jesus never authorized multiple religious groups, but that He established only one church and that He guides that church, even today, by His own Word.

We, of the Circleville Church of Christ, are striving to imitate the original first century church in all areas. In TEACHING, we speak only as God has spoken and remain silent where we find God's silence. In WORSHIP, we follow the pattern outlined in the New Testament. In ATTITUDE, we seek to be filled with love and brotherly kindness as those early Christians manifested in their daily lives. Our sole PURPOSE for existing as a church is to glorify and praise our Maker and Redeemer. The MISSION God has given us is the same as that of the first Christians — "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel." (Mark 16:15) We believe our world begins in Circleville.

Our effort to be simply Christians in no way claims that we have achieved all that the name represents. We confess shortcomings, but believe that by applying the principles of God's Word to our daily lives we can grow toward spiritual maturity.

If you welcome warm, genuine association and a challenge to serve and live for your Creator, you will appreciate fellowship with us. If you long for the power, direction, and purpose He can give your life, come worship with us.

ROTARY SPEAKER — Bob Call, left, presented James Megginson, President of Columbia Oil Company, as the guest speaker at the Thursday Rotary Club meeting. Megginson was a seven time water skiing champion at Ohio State University, and taught the Dale Carnegie Course for 15 years. In his address, he built a triangle using attitude, knowledge, and skills as the sides. At next week's meeting, Gordy Coleman, publicity chairman for the Cincinnati Reds, will address the club.

Nuclear Safety Ballot Issue Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Pro-utility forces are sizing up a surprisingly strong consumer coalition during a lull before the possible storm of debate over a nuclear safety ballot issue.

Ohioans for Utility Reform (OUR) showed up last week at the State Office Tower with 382,299 signatures on initiative petitions from all 88 counties. A minimum of 307,201 signatures from at least 44 counties is required to qualify a proposed constitutional amendment for the Nov. 2 ballot.

Utility lobbyists, watching from the fringes of the crowd as the self-styled reformers unloaded their petitions in cardboard boxes, were surprised and impressed by the showing, but not caught off guard.

"They're no amateurs," one utility source said. "They knew what they were doing. You can tell that by the quality of the signatures."

At first glance, he said, the petitions appeared to have a good chance of surviving the scrutiny of election officials who are already in the process of checking the names against lists of enrolled voters.

Up until a few days before the deadline, OUR Chairman Robert Loitz had suggested the anti-utility group might come up short and hold off on filing until the June election next year.

The cushion of extra names is still relatively small and if the petitions fall below the limit during the validation process over the next two weeks, OUR will get a 10-day extension to recoup signatures.

Even if OUR is cleared for the ballot by the secretary of state's office, it could still face a legal challenge on procedural grounds from a high-powered utility coalition. "I'm sure they are going to try every thing in the book," says Loitz.

Citizens for Safe, Lower Cost Electricity is still paging through that book but expects to operate on a $1 million budget, backed by big names from business, industry and labor. By comparison, Loitz claims he is heading up a grassroots organization with meager financial backing.

His opponents will draw the lion's share of their support from Ohio's seven electric companies who fear the nuclear amendment could bring construction of atomic power plants to a standstill.

Utility spokesman say their campaign will be educational in tone, aimed at familiarizing Ohioans with the benefits nuclear power and the safeguards presently taken to assure its safe use.

In addition to the restrictions on nuclear power, OUR is calling for a vote on issues to force utilities to guarantee minimal amounts of gas and electricity at nominal rates during the heating season; establish a consumer watchdog organization to fight high utility rates, and ease standards for qualifying ballot issues.

Whether the utility coalition will be able to hold all of its far-flung members in line against the latter three propositions remains in doubt.

Warren J. Smith, secretary-treasurer of Ohio AFL-CIO who is listed by the "Citizens" as a steering committee member, said he came on board strictly on the basis of opposition to the nuclear amendment. Smith said the union has taken no position on the other three proposals.

Bowling Green Man Gets Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ray Anderson, 32, of Bowling Green has been appointed superintendent of Northwest Ohio Development Center, the Ohio Department of Mental Health said.

Anderson will begin his duties at the Toledo center on Sept. 6. The center, one of five prescriptive training centers in the state, will serve the community as a resource to cut down institutionalization and as a transition point for return of inmates to the community.

Anderson has been superintendent of the Wood County Board of Mental Retardation since 1971.

Ohio Income Shows Rise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Personal income in Ohio was up nine per cent in June compared to the same month in 1975, the Ohio State University center for business and economic research has reported.

The center, which gathers data from Ohio in general and from eight major city-county population centers in particular, also has reported a 10 per cent jump in personal income in the first six months of this year compared to that period last year.

The center also reports Ohio production worker payrolls and has found that the metal products sector saw a 28 per cent payroll increase in June of this year compared to June, 1975.

For the first half of this year, however, the vehicle production industry in the state has shown the largest increase—25 per cent over the same period last year.

By area, the Cincinnati-Hamilton County sector showed the largest increases in production worker payrolls for both the June, 1976-June, 1975 comparison and the comparison of the first halves of this year and last, with 17 and 14 per cent rises respectively.

'Tecumseh' Cast Plans Charlie Brown Skit

The famous cartoon character, Charlie Brown, along with his equally famous friends including Lucy, Linus, Snoopy, Schroeder and Sally are coming to town.

Members of the cast of the outdoor drama, "Tecumseh!" will present, in association with The Scioto Society, the musical comedy adaption of the well-known cartoon strip, "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Men And Women In Military Service

Sergeant Terry A. Martin, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Martin of 428 Glenmont Ct., Circleville, has graduated from the Air Force Logistics Command Non-commissioned Officer Leadership School at Robins AFB, Ga.

TERRY MARTIN

The sergeant, who was trained in military management and supervision, is a physiological training specialist at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

Sergeant Martin is a 1967 graduate of Circleville High School.

TOMMY ENGLAND

Tommy Michael England, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy C. England, 159 E. Union St., has enlisted in the U.S. Navy's Delayed Enlistment Program. England is a 1976 graduate of Circleville High School, will report to the U.S. Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla. in December for recruit training. Upon completion of recruit training he will commence his training in aviation jet mechanics. England enlisted at the U.S. Navy Recruiting Station in Lancaster.

This play, which is family-rated and good, clean wholesome entertainment, will be presented at Bennet Hall of the Ohio University in Chillicothe on Aug. 21, 22 and again on Aug. 28 and 29.

The play is being directed by Randall Willis of Spruce Pine, N.C., assisted by Jack Waldon of Jacksonville, Fla.

Little loveable Lucy will do her psychiatrist bit and sing for you. And Snoopy leaves his resting roost atop his doghouse to render hilarious rendition of his Fighter Pilot ploy. All the characters in this play will sing and entertain you in their own inimitable way.

This is entertainment at its best presented by budding professional actors from the outdoor drama, "Tecumseh!" It is suggested and highly recommended for family groups, clubs, and Sunday School classes.

Members of the cast include James Luzar of Cleveland; Pam Meadows, Virginia Beach, Va.; Ric Beatty, Utica; Richard Williams of Winston-Salem, N.C. who also does the choreography for the show; Paul Davis, New Albany, Ind. and Lynn Baker of Charlottesville, Va.

Tickets for "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" will be available at the Sugarloaf Mountain Amphitheatre and at Bennet Hall.

Bid For Pay Turned Down

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati City Manager William Donaldson, acting on the recommendation of a team of city administrators, has rejected a $26,100 overtime claim by suspended Police Chief Carl Goodin.

The overtime claim had been previously approved by acting Police Chief Carl Leistler.

"There is neither 'precedent nor justification' for making such a payment to a police chief, according to the committee report. But the report did say that assistant chiefs had been paid overtime in the past when leaving city service.

The team did recommend payment of $3,132 for 219.7 hours of unused vacation for Goodin.

The report also said Safety Director Richard Castellini could pay Goodin $1,540 for 108 hours Goodin worked on holidays if the work could be documented by records.

Goodin was convicted in June of perjury before a special Hamilton County grand jury and tampering with evidence. The evidence involved alleged kickbacks from salaries collected by two officers assigned as helicopter traffic pilots broadcasting on commercial radio stations.

Goodin is appealing the conviction.

Swine Flu Bill Said Sufficient

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The recently passed federal bill providing liability coverage for mass swine flu immunizations is sufficient for Ohio, the state Influenza Advisory Committee said Thursday.

The committee also reported learning that the nation's drug producers have 120 million doses ready in bulk packaging and estimate it will take four weeks to break those doses down into individual dosage.

Jon Christensen, a spokesman for the state Department of Health, says that delay will be pushing the beginning date of the Ohio program for the small counties where the program is set to begin Sept. 13.

"Except for those small counties, we should be right on schedule. The federal people say they will have more firm information in two or three days.

"We also were told that the people deciding dosages at the federal level will meet Aug. 20 to decide the children's dosage."

Christensen said the recommendations for dosages have been made for persons age 20 and above, but are pending for teenagers and children.

He also reported that the department and advisory committee have reports from all 88 counties on their plans for immunization.

City Police Investigate Burglaries

Circleville Police investigated two burglaries Thursday.

Police received a report at 9 a.m. Thursday concerning a breaking and entering and theft at Custom Portable Welding, 934 S. Washington St.

According to the report, thieves broke a window to gain entrance to the building. Once inside, the culprits took several socket wrenches and screwdrivers. No exact value was set on the stolen items.

John Pontious told police that someone entered his trucks, parked at Red Rose Grain on East Main Street, and removed the radio. Value of the items was set at $339. The incident occurred Wednesday night.

Accident Investigated

Circleville Police investigated an accident at the intersection of York and Court Streets Thursday at 4:24 p.m.

According to the report, Regina Helwagen, 59, 813 N. Court St. was making a right turn from York Street onto Court when she pulled into the path of a car driven by Larry Weaver, 35, Route 4.

Weaver received a bump on the forehead but refused treatment.

Swine Flu Bill Said Sufficient

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The recently passed federal bill providing liability coverage for mass swine flu immunizations is sufficient for Ohio, the state Influenza Advisory Committee said Thursday.

The committee also reported learning that the nation's drug producers have 120 million doses ready in bulk packaging and estimate it will take four weeks to break those doses down into individual dosage.

Jon Christensen, a spokesman for the state Department of Health, says that delay will be pushing the beginning date of the Ohio program for the small counties where the program is set to begin Sept. 13.

"Except for those small counties, we should be right on schedule. The federal people say they will have more firm information in two or three days.

"We also were told that the people deciding dosages at the federal level will meet Aug. 20 to decide the children's dosage."

Christensen said the recommendations for dosages have been made for persons age 20 and above, but are pending for teenagers and children.

He also reported that the department and advisory committee have reports from all 88 counties on their plans for immunization.

TOM SPRING
A Benchwarmer

A topic that has appeared with more frequency recently and that may become a state constitutional issue in June if initiative petitioning is successful is the banning of the use of traps.

Trapping serves two purposes: providing the trapper with a source, of income, and, through careful regulation, promoting good wildlife management and conservation by preventing overpopulation which leads to death by disease and starvation.

The biggest problem associated with the proposed amendment is an educational one, that is, presenting accurate information about the issue.

A petition was circulated through Circleville recently for signatures to put the issue on the state-wide June ballot. A lady told of the agony some animals were put through while caught and displayed a brochure full of vivid pictures of such animals.

But, what is not as well known is the fact that the largest land trap allowed in Ohio is a 5 1/2 inch jaw-span trap equivalent to the No. 2 coil spring trap. According to Jerry Cremeans, Ohio Division of Wildlife law enforcement investigator for Pickaway, Fayette, and Madison Counties, this trap and the smaller traps hold an animal without harm. A dog caught accidentally can be released without harm.

Ohio law requires traps to be checked every 30 hours. According to Cremeans, most trappers check much more frequently than that as it is more profitable for them to do so.

While trapping in various forms has existed since the beginning of man, some people, such as the Ohio Committee for Humane Trapping is seeking a ban on the leg hold trap.

But, Cremeans said, passage of the constitutional amendment as now written would ban all trapping. "It would ban trapping of rats and mice at home, ban research trapping by universities and wildlife groups and ban trapping for relocation of wildlife purposes by the Ohio Division of Wildlife," he said.

People on both sides tend to be sincere in their views about trapping, but the public should become acquainted with all the facts in order to form a qualified opinion.

Further information on state trapping laws can be obtained from ODW county game protectors and wildlife biologists. Recommended reading is ODW Chief Dale L. Haney's "The Role of Trapping in Wildlife Conservation," published in the August issue of Ohio Out-of-Doors.

ODW has recently published "When and Where to Fish" for Ohio fishing, available without charge. It provides information on regional fishing for the 16 most popular Ohio game fish. Copies of it, Publication 121, may be obtained from Publications Center, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224.

1-Punch Fight Injures Staubach

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

"I guess it was his way of saying 'goodbye,'" said Dallas starting quarterback Roger Staubach after he was slugged by teammate Clint Longley.

Longley, the Cowboy's No. 2 signal-caller, was suspended after the one-punch fight that resulted in stitches over Staubach's left eye.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry said Staubach "will be able to play Saturday night" when the Cowboys play host to the Denver Broncos in a National Football League preseason game.

"Danny White, of course, will play the second half instead of Longley," said Landry.

White, who chose to play in the World Football League after the Cowboys made him their No. 3 pick in the 1974 draft, connected on 10 of 21 passes for 101 yards in last week's loss to the Los Angeles Rams. He also

Ohio Sires Stakes Held At Downs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Under the Covers and Spotlight Hill won the two divisions of the Ohio Sires Stakes series for 2-year-old filly trotters at Scioto Downs Thursday night.

Spotlight Hill won her division going away in 2:05 2-5 for the mile. She paid $2.60, $2.20 and $2.40.

Under the Covers trotted the mile in 2:06 4-5 and returned $73.80, $25.40 and $9. In that race, the 1-10 quinnella payoff of $962.30 was the largest in the track's history.

The 5-2 daily double combination of Luras Angel and Blazing Gold was worth $26.20.

appears to have solved part of Dallas' kicking problems, punting four times for a 47.5 average last week.

Before the Longley-Staubach episode, the Cowboys, a perennial contender in the National Conference, have had their problems. Dallas has yet to win in two outings. But they have been playing the cream of the NFL crop.

Denver has posted a 1-2 record, losing last week to San Francisco 17-7 as Broncos rookie Craig Penrose impressed with six completions on 11 passes for 75 yards, including a 22-yard TD strike to Bill Van Heusen. Denver starter Steve Ramsey was nine of 15 for 113 yards in the first three periods.

The long NFL weekend begins tonight when the New York Jets play their second game in 48 hours, taking on the Oakland Raiders at Yankee Stadium. The Jets, 0-2, lost 16-14 to the New York Giants Wednesday night on a 34-yard field goal with 16 seconds remaining in the game. The contest had been postponed from Monday because of Hurricane Belle.

In another game tonight, New Orleans, 1-1, travels to Buffalo, 0-2.

Besides the Denver-Dallas collision, Saturday games will pit Pittsburgh at Washington, Los Angeles at Seattle, Baltimore at Chicago, Detroit at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at Miami, the New York Giants at Houston and Tampa Bay vs. Atlanta at Jacksonville, Fla.

Sunday, Kansas City travels to San Francisco and Green Bay plays at New England.

On Monday, the St. Louis Cardinals and San Diego Chargers will play the first NFL game to be staged outside North America. The two teams will meet in Tokyo at 6:30 p.m., Japan time. It will be 5:30 a.m., EDT.

Also Monday, Minnesota will be at Cleveland.

The Raiders will continue to trot in their stable of quarterbacks against the Jets. Starter Ken Stabler will begin, but Oakland will take long looks at Dave Humm, Larry Lawrence, Mike Rae and Jeb Blount. The Jets will start Joe Namath, who went all the way in the loss to the Giants, but Coach Lou Holtz says rookie Richard Todd will play "90 per cent of the game."

Reds Beat Riled Cubs, 8-3

CHICAGO (AP) — "It's unreal, unbelievable the outcome of these two games the last two days," said Jim Marshall, the Chicago Cubs' weary manager following Thursday's 8-3 loss to the Cincinnati Reds.

It was another argument-infested game with the Cubs losing all the arguments and both games.

On Wednesday, they blew 10-1 lead and lost 13-10. The argument they lost in that one was whether Johnny Bench's three-run homer in the seventh was fair or foul. The umpires ruled fair.

In Thursday's game, umpire John Kibler ejected pitcher Rick Reuschel from the game for challenging two calls with Joe Morgan at bat.

The count went from 1-2 to 3-2 before Morgan unloaded with his 21st homer to open the eighth and cut Chicago's lead to 3-2. Reuschel came off the mound hollering "You took two strikes away from me" and Kibler immediately thumbed him out of the game.

Reuschel then had to be restrained from attacking Kibler by catcher Steve Swisher and Manager Marshall.

"He can't leave his position to challenge an umpire on balls and strikes," said Kibler. "He's got to go. Those are the rules and there's no other way about it."

Replied Marshall: "He did it very fast and on questionable pitches. The ejection of Reuschel cost us the game. My players had rebounded from a very disappointing situation yesterday and then they have to run into this. We should have won all three games."

Morgan was angry about all the controversy and said "Both pitches were out of the strike zone. The one I hit out was a fast ball ... just what you figure to get on a 3-2 count. I don't know where it was but it was a fast ball."

After Morgan's homer and Reuschel left the park, Bruce Sutter came in for the Cubs to serve George Foster with his 25th homer which tied the game. Johnny Bench then singled and out went Sutter in favor of Mike Garman.

Tony Perez bounced in what looked like a double play but first base umpire called Perez safe.

"He was out by a half of a step and the TV replay proves it," said Marshall.

Cesar Geronimo fled out but Dave Concepcion, who had struck out twice and hit into a double play, tripled Perez home with the lead run.

Foster then slugged a three-run homer in the ninth as he became the first major leaguer this season to go over the century mark with 102 runs batted in. Bench followed with his 12th homer for good measure, all of which wiped out a three-hit, one-homer and two-run-batted-in performance by Cub first baseman Pete LaCorte.

Frank LaCorte was a frustrated young man. The Atlanta Braves pitcher was 0-6 with a 7.14 ERA.

LaCorte recalled how he'd go home at night and say to his wife, "Honey, I know I can pitch. What's wrong? She'd say she didn't know, and I'd get mad."

Well, nothing was wrong for the 24-year-old LaCorte Thursday night. He limited the Philadelphia Phillies to four hits and two runs in 5 2-3 innings, and two relievers protected the lead for LaCorte's first major league victory, a 4-3 decision.

There were just two other National League games played Thursday. Cincinnati rocked the Chicago Cubs 8-3 and San Diego blanked the New York Mets 3-0.

The Braves built a 4-0 lead in the first three innings off Phillies' loser Jim Lonborg, 12-8. Singles by Jerry Royster and Darrel Chaney and a double play ball accounted for a first-inning run. Cito Gaston had an RBI double and Willie Montanez socked a two-run homer in the third.

The 6-foot-1 LaCorte gave up a run in the fifth on a single by Larry Bowa and pinch-hitter Bob Boone's double.

In the Philadelphia sixth, LaCorte got in a jam and was relieved by Mike Beard. Garry Maddox opened the inning with a single. LaCorte got the next two outs, but he walked Ray Johnstone and Tommy Hutton and that was it. Beard walked pinch-hitter Ollie Brown, forcing in the run and making it 4-2.

LaCorte retired to the dressing room where he lived and died with each play as Beard and then Adrian Devine battled to save the rookie's first big league win. The ninth was a lifetime for LaCorte.

It was the kind of an inning designed to drive pitchers mad. Bowa bounced out to start the Phil's ninth, but Jerry Martin, Dave Cash and Maddox singled in succession for one run and there was the tying run at third and the winner on first with one out.

All Devine had to do was retire Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski, two of baseball's best sluggers. Schmidt struck out.

"I was saying, 'please, it's so hard to get this first one (win),' LaCorte related.

With Luzinski at bat, Maddox stole second. A single could win the game for Philadelphia. But Luzinski popped up.

LaCorte went ape. He stood at the door and shook each Brave's hand as the team filed into the dressing room.

Padres 3, Mets 0

Rookie Rick Sawyer, 3-0, bested Tom Seaver, 9-8, with an eight-hitter. Seaver, who has not won since July 8, gave up all three runs in the second inning — two on a single by Fred Kendall and the other on a single by Sawyer. After the game it was announced that the Mets have extended Manager Joe Frazier's contract for another year.

Denver has posted a 1-2 record, losing last week to San Francisco 17-7 as Broncos rookie Craig Penrose impressed with six completions on 11 passes for 75 yards, including a 22-yard TD strike to Bill Van Heusen. Denver starter Steve Ramsey was nine of 15 for 113 yards in the first three periods.

The long NFL weekend begins tonight when the New York Jets play their second game in 48 hours, taking on the Oakland Raiders at Yankee Stadium. The Jets, 0-2, lost 16-14 to the New York Giants Wednesday night on a 34-yard field goal with 16 seconds remaining in the game. The contest had been postponed from Monday because of Hurricane Belle.

In another game tonight, New Orleans, 1-1, travels to Buffalo, 0-2.

Besides the Denver-Dallas collision, Saturday games will pit Pittsburgh at Washington, Los Angeles at Seattle, Baltimore at Chicago, Detroit at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at Miami, the New York Giants at Houston and Tampa Bay vs. Atlanta at Jacksonville, Fla.

Sunday, Kansas City travels to San Francisco and Green Bay plays at New England.

On Monday, the St. Louis Cardinals and San Diego Chargers will play the first NFL game to be staged outside North America. The two teams will meet in Tokyo at 6:30 p.m., Japan time. It will be 5:30 a.m., EDT.

Also Monday, Minnesota will be at Cleveland.

The Raiders will continue to trot in their stable of quarterbacks against the Jets. Starter Ken Stabler will begin, but Oakland will take long looks at Dave Humm, Larry Lawrence, Mike Rae and Jeb Blount. The Jets will start Joe Namath, who went all the way in the loss to the Giants, but Coach Lou Holtz says rookie Richard Todd will play "90 per cent of the game."

CHICAGO (AP) — "It's unreal, unbelievable the outcome of these two games the last two days," said Jim Marshall, the Chicago Cubs' weary manager following Thursday's 8-3 loss to the Cincinnati Reds.

It was another argument-infested game with the Cubs losing all the arguments and both games.

On Wednesday, they blew 10-1 lead and lost 13-10. The argument they lost in that one was whether Johnny Bench's three-run homer in the seventh was fair or foul. The umpires ruled fair.

In Thursday's game, umpire John Kibler ejected pitcher Rick Reuschel from the game for challenging two calls with Joe Morgan at bat.

The count went from 1-2 to 3-2 before Morgan unloaded with his 21st homer to open the eighth and cut Chicago's lead to 3-2. Reuschel came off the mound hollering "You took two strikes away from me" and Kibler immediately thumbed him out of the game.

Reuschel then had to be restrained from attacking Kibler by catcher Steve Swisher and Manager Marshall.

"He can't leave his position to challenge an umpire on balls and strikes," said Kibler. "He's got to go. Those are the rules and there's no other way about it."

Replied Marshall: "He did it very fast and on questionable pitches. The ejection of Reuschel cost us the game. My players had rebounded from a very disappointing situation yesterday and then they have to run into this. We should have won all three games."

Morgan was angry about all the controversy and said "Both pitches were out of the strike zone. The one I hit out was a fast ball ... just what you figure to get on a 3-2 count. I don't know where it was but it was a fast ball."

After Morgan's homer and Reuschel left the park, Bruce Sutter came in for the Cubs to serve George Foster with his 25th homer which tied the game. Johnny Bench then singled and out went Sutter in favor of Mike Garman.

Tony Perez bounced in what looked like a double play but first base umpire called Perez safe.

"He was out by a half of a step and the TV replay proves it," said Marshall.

Cesar Geronimo fled out but Dave Concepcion, who had struck out twice and hit into a double play, tripled Perez home with the lead run.

Foster then slugged a three-run homer in the ninth as he became the first major leaguer this season to go over the century mark with 102 runs batted in. Bench followed with his 12th homer for good measure, all of which wiped out a three-hit, one-homer and two-run-batted-in performance by Cub first baseman Pete LaCock.

Frank LaCorte was a frustrated young man. The Atlanta Braves pitcher was 0-6 with a 7.14 ERA.

LaCorte recalled how he'd go home at night and say to his wife, "Honey, I know I can pitch. What's wrong? She'd say she didn't know, and I'd get mad."

Well, nothing was wrong for the 24-year-old LaCorte Thursday night. He limited the Philadelphia Phillies to four hits and two runs in 5 2/3 innings, and two relievers protected the lead for LaCorte's first major league victory, a 4-3 decision.

There were just two other National League games played Thursday. Cincinnati rocked the Chicago Cubs 8-3 and San Diego blanked the New York Mets 3-0.

The Braves built a 4-0 lead in the first three innings off Phillies' loser Jim Lonborg, 12-8. Singles by Jerry Royster and Darrel Chaney and a double play ball accounted for a first-inning run. Cito Gaston had an RBI double and Willie Montanez socked a two-run homer in the third.

The 6-foot-1 LaCorte gave up a run in the fifth on a single by Larry Bowa and pinch-hitter Bob Boone's double.

In the Philadelphia sixth, LaCorte got in a jam and was relieved by Mike Beard. Garry Maddox opened the inning with a single. LaCorte got the next two outs, but he walked Ray Johnstone and Tommy Hutton and that was it. Beard walked pinch-hitter Ollie Brown, forcing in the run and making it 4-2.

LaCorte retired to the dressing room where he lived and died with each play as Beard and then Adrian Devine battled to save the rookie's first big league win. The ninth was a lifetime for LaCorte.

It was the kind of an inning designed to drive pitchers mad. Bowa bounced out to start the Phil's ninth, but Jerry Martin, Dave Cash and Maddox singled in succession for one run and there was the tying run at third and the winner on first with one out.

All Devine had to do was retire Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski, two of baseball's best sluggers. Schmidt struck out.

"I was saying, 'please, it's so hard to get this first one (win),' LaCorte related.

With Luzinski at bat, Maddox stole second. A single could win the game for Philadelphia. But Luzinski popped up.

LaCorte went ape. He stood at the door and shook each Brave's hand as the team filed into the dressing room.

Padres 3, Mets 0

Rookie Rick Sawyer, 3-0, bested Tom Seaver, 9-8, with an eight-hitter. Seaver, who has not won since July 8, gave up all three runs in the second inning — two on a single by Fred Kendall and the other on a single by Sawyer. After the game it was announced that the Mets have extended Manager Joe Frazier's contract for another year.

The situation called for a clutch hitter and Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson knew just the man for the job.

"It was a tough situation but I knew the pressure wasn't going to bother me," Robinson explained. "I was the man for the situation."

Robinson sent himself up as a pinch-hitter with one out, the bases loaded and the score tied in the bottom of the ninth inning against Texas Thursday night. And he made himself look good with a line single to give the Indians a 5-4 victory over the Rangers.

"If you're going to be a winning ballclub, these are the games you have to win," said Robinson. "I just felt I could make contact."

Elsewhere in an abbreviated American League schedule, the New York Yankees pounded Minnesota 12-5, Oakland shaded Milwaukee 4-3 and Boston edged California 2-1 in 10 innings.

Boog Powell ripped a three-run homer in the third inning to help the Indians to an early 3-2 lead, but two walks, a pair of errors and a sacrifice fly by Roy Howell accounted for two runs and put Texas on top 4-3 going into the ninth.

The Indians tied it on a double by John Lowenstein and a single by Larvell Blanks. Then Rick Manning doubled, Rico Carty was intentionally walked and Robinson came up against Mike Bacsik. After failing on a squeeze bunt that just kicked foul — "That's the first time I've tried a squeeze bunt in 21 years," said Robinson — he lined the game-winning hit.

Lefty Dave LaRoche fired two innings of hitless relief to gain his first victory of the season. "I'm glad I finally got one," said LaRoche. "Some guys gave me a hard time for making the All-Star team without a win."

Jeff Terpo, 3-3, the fourth of five Ranger pitchers, took the loss.

Yankees 12, Twins 5

Chris Chambliss drove in three runs and Mickey Rivers and Carlos May had three hits and two RBI apiece as New York upped its lead in the AL East to 10 games. Catfish Hunter, 13-12, posted his first victory since July 21. The Yanks pounded Steve Luebber, 3-3, and four successors for 16 base hits.

A's 4, Brewers 3

Pinch-runner Larry Lintz stole second and scored the tiebreaking run on a single by Gene Tenace in the eighth inning as Oakland pulled within eight games of front-running Kansas City in the AL West. Doubles by Billy Williams and Phil Garner helped the A's score three runs in the fifth. Rolie Fingers, 8-7, won it and Bill Castro, 3-2, lost it, both in relief.

Red Sox 2, Angels 1

Fred Lynn's broken-bat RBI single in the 10th won it for Boston and Luis Tiant, 12-10, bested Nolan Ryan, 9-15. Rick Burleson scored the first Boston run when he raced home on the back end of a double steal in the third. Bob Jones' sacrifice fly in the seventh drove in the lone California run.

All-Stars Win At Ashville

The Circleville Major League All-Stars thwarted a last inning rally by Groveport to win 6-5 in Ashville tournament action.

Barry Sealock hammered out three singles, Jeff Williams two and Fred Pyles, Dusty Miller, Jeff Miller and Jeff McGowan, a single each. Barry Sealock worked 5 2-3 innings and Tommy Tomlinson provided a third of an inning relief. They walked four and fanned nine.

The next game for the All-Stars is at Chillicothe 8 p.m. tonight. They play Whitehall blue 1 p.m. Sunday in the finals of the winners bracket at Ashville.

Battle Over Leg Traps To Continue

By JIM DAUBEL
For The Associated Press

Antitrappers in Ohio, though failing to reach their primary objective, have served notice that their drive to outlaw the leg-hold trap is far from over.

The Ohio Committee for Humane Trapping launched an ambitious and expensive campaign two months ago to obtain the 307,201 signatures necessary to force a statewide referendum on the issue.

The target date was Aug. 4, deadline for getting the leg-hold trap ban on the November general election ballot. The committee was aiming for a minimum of 360,000 signatures. The excess, about 20 per cent more than required, would provide a cushion against names of ineligible signers sure to be disqualified by the secretary of state.

Actually obtained were 235,000 signatures from 25 of the 44 counties required to qualify for the ballot, according to Sandy Rowland, committee president.

In a recent news conference called to announce the antitrappers' failure, Mrs. Rowland vowed her group would continue its efforts to get the constitutional amendment on the June or November ballots next year.

In so doing, she took several verbal swipes at her opponents, comments that a spokesman for the Wildlife Legislative Fund (WLF) called "ironic, to say the least."

Mrs. Rowland accused the "well-funded opposition by furriers, trappers and hunt and gun clubs" of "exaggeration and misstatements" to slow the petition drive.

The WLF, which is spearheading that opposition, spent nothing on statewide media ads to counteract the campaign. In contrast, a WLF representative who is monitoring the antitrapping effort, said Mrs. Rowland's committee bought space for large advertisements in 44 newspapers on at least three occasions. The media blitz, the WLF spokesman claimed, probably cost nearly $500,000.

Among misstatements alleged against her critics, Mrs. Rowland said the claim that her group is opposed to all trapping is untrue.

And yet, as the WLF points out, a 15-point broadside distributed by the Committee for Humane Trapping contains four specific arguments against trapping in general.

Moreover, the WLF spokesman pointed to a recent Cleveland

television interview with Brian Davies of British Columbia, president of the International Fund for Animal Welfare, a chief contributor to the antitrapping drive in Ohio.

Davies, barnstorming Ohio by helicopter at the time to promote the petition drive, said flatly that his organization is committed to outlawing all trapping "but we feel banning the leg-hold trap is the best we can achieve at this time."

Mrs. Rowland, in effect, called Ohio

Wildlife Chief Dale Haney a liar for arguing that trapping controls wildlife numbers, thereby checking diseases that could spread among animals and humans if certain wildlife species were allowed to overpopulate.

Dr. Jack Russell, chief public health veterinarian of the Ohio Division of Communicable Diseases, issued the strongest warning against managing wildlife by constitutional amendment, as Mrs. Rowland's committee suggests.

Parrish Seeks Way To Join Redskins

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Four time All Pro cornerback Lemar Parrish would like to join the Washington Redskins "Over-The-Hill Gang" because the Cincinnati Bengals refuse to renegotiate his three year contract.

Parrish said he would be most happy to join Coach George Allen and the Redskins, known for picking up veteran players from other teams.

"Tell George hello and I'll be seeing him soon," said the disgruntled Cincinnati Bengals defensive back Thursday.

Parrish has renewed his demand to be traded and says he's narrowed his list of desired teams to three.

"I'd like to go to Washington, because of George Allen. I've always wanted to play for him," he said. The other two teams on his list are expansion entry Tampa and the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Tampa would be close to home and I'd like to go to St. Louis because of Chuck Weber," said Parrish, a former National Football League punt return champion and perhaps the most versatile athlete on the Bengals.

Weber, the former Bengals defensive coordinator, who stepped down under pressure this past season, joined the Cardinals in the same capacity.

"He's the only coach I had in the pros. He was always a fair man and well-respected by all the players. His method of teaching was unique. He took time out to explain things, the small things. When I came here I had the ability, but Chuck brought out the greatness," said Parrish, who has asked the Bengals to renegotiate his three-year contract.

He has two years remaining on the pact.

The Riviera Beach, Fla. native said there are "a lot of places I don't want to go." He declined to name the cities.

When Austin beat San Antonio 44-0 in a 1907 Texas League game the contest lasted only one hour 40 minutes.

In a 1914 Georgia-Alabama League baseball game, pitcher John Cantley hit three grand slam home runs and a single to drive in 15 runs in leading Opelika, Ga., to a 19-1 win over Talladega, Ala.

Legion Ball Tournament Nears End

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The American Legion state baseball tournament here is nearing completion with what could be the last game scheduled this afternoon.

The winner of the Piqua-Maynard game this morning was to play Columbus-Scioto, the only unbeaten team in the double-elimination tournament, in the championship game.

A victory by Scioto would give it the state title. But a loss, Scioto's first of the tournament, would require that the two teams play again Saturday morning.

Willoughby was dropped from the American Legion state baseball tournament Thursday for violations of housing rules, according to William Welsh, tournament director.

The action by the Legion baseball commission reportedly followed repeated disturbances involving team members at a dormitory in which they stayed on the West Green of Ohio University.

Willoughby was to have played Piqua Thursday afternoon. The cancellation meant Piqua won by forfeit and advanced to today's game with Maynard.

In Thursday morning's action, Maynard defeated Athens 3-2 and Piqua beat Archbold 8-0. Both Athens and Archbold were eliminated.

Athens took a 2-0 lead in the second inning against Maynard, but Maynard came back with one run in the fifth and two sixth on two hits and an error to take the lead. Athens threatened in both the eighth and ninth but failed. The winning pitcher was Bob Silva who went all the way. The loser was Mike Born. Scott Dailey came in relief but was not pitcher of record.

In the second game Piqua downed Archbold 8-0 in a combined one-hitter by Mike Schieltz and Randy Fries. Schieltz pitched the first seven innings before having relief help from Fries.

The tournament rules allow a pitcher to throw only 12 innings in three days and that probably accounted for Schieltz, who was having no trouble, leaving the game. The only hit by Archbold came in the ninth when Mark Miller doubled. The only other Archbold base runner got on the seventh on an error by Piqua shortstop Greg Miller.

For The Associated Press
Antitrappers in Ohio, though failing to reach their primary objective, have served notice that their drive to outlaw the leg-hold trap is far from over.

The Ohio Committee for Humane Trapping launched an ambitious and expensive campaign two months ago to obtain the 307,201 signatures necessary to force a statewide referendum on the issue.

The target date was Aug. 4, deadline for getting the leg-hold trap ban on the November general election ballot. The committee was aiming for a minimum of 360,000 signatures. The excess, about 20 per cent more than required, would provide a cushion against names of ineligible signers sure to be disqualified by the secretary of state.

Actually obtained were 235,000 signatures from 25 of the 44 counties required to qualify for the ballot, according to Sandy Rowland, committee president.

In a recent news conference called to announce the antitrappers' failure, Mrs. Rowland vowed her group would continue its efforts to get the constitutional amendment on the June or November ballots next year.

In so doing, she took several verbal swipes at her opponents, comments that a spokesman for the Wildlife Legislative Fund (WLF) called "ironic, to say the least."

Mrs. Rowland accused the "well-funded opposition by furriers, trappers and hunt and gun clubs" of "exaggeration and misstatements" to slow the petition drive.

The WLF, which is spearheading that opposition, spent nothing on statewide media ads to counteract the campaign. In contrast, a WLF representative who is monitoring the antitrapping effort, said Mrs. Rowland's committee bought space for large advertisements in 44 newspapers on at least three occasions. The media blitz, the WLF spokesman claimed, probably cost nearly $500,000.

Among misstatements alleged against her critics, Mrs. Rowland said the claim that her group is opposed to all trapping is untrue.

And yet, as the WLF points out, a 15-point broadside distributed by the Committee for Humane Trapping contains four specific arguments against trapping in general.

Moreover, the WLF spokesman pointed to a recent Cleveland

television interview with Brian Davies of British Columbia, president of the International Fund for Animal Welfare, a chief contributor to the antitrapping drive in Ohio.

Davies, barnstorming Ohio by helicopter at the time to promote the petition drive, said flatly that his organization is committed to outlawing all trapping "but we feel banning the leg-hold trap is the best we can achieve at this time."

Mrs. Rowland, in effect, called Ohio

Wildlife Chief Dale Haney a liar for arguing that trapping controls wildlife numbers, thereby checking diseases that could spread among animals and humans if certain wildlife species were allowed to overpopulate.

Dr. Jack Russell, chief public health veterinarian of the Ohio Division of Communicable Diseases, issued the strongest warning against managing wildlife by constitutional amendment, as Mrs. Rowland's committee suggests.

John Leist Attends REACT Convention

John D. Leist, 8341 Old Tarlton Pike, Stoutsville, represented Pickaway County REACT and the Ohio REACT Council at the First International REACT Convention, held August 6, 7, and 8, at Chicago, Ill. Leist, who serves as president of both the local team and the statewide council, was one of the several hundred REACT members from the U.S. and Canada who participated in the three day event.

Among the speakers who addressed the conference, were Herbert S. Leib, chief of the community preparedness staff of the National Weather Service; Richard Everett, assistant chief, amateur and citizens radio section, FCC, Washington; Richard Smith, assistant chief, field operations bureau, FCC, Washington; Captain S. J. Stephany of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and John Leist, president of the Ohio REACT Council, the first one to be formed, and other speakers representing the Red Cross, Civil Defense and other key agencies.

In commenting about the convention, Leist stated, "The vast amount of information obtained at the convention will serve to enrich the programming of our local REACT team. We are confident that the information obtained, plus the new spirit and growth of the REACT program, will help to provide greater community service than ever before."

REACT has over 1500 teams and 100,000 active participants in the United States, Canada, and other countries utilizing CB radio for emergency and public service communications. REACT performs this public service as an independent non-profit agency and all the members are volunteers, giving of their time and equipment to serve the community.

Also attending this convention were Kathy Leist, daughter of John Leist, and her friend, Joyce Fogler of Tarlton.

Most Mines Operating

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A United Mine Workers International Executive Board member believes the four-week strike that idle most of the nation's coal mines was led by dissidents bent on destroying the union.

The charge was leveled Thursday by Ivan White, a member of the IEB from District 17, as most miners reported back to work after the walkout that cost the nation $130 million in coal production.

Whites's comments came after a group of the dissidents held a news conference in front of District 17 headquarters here urging the strike to continue until Tuesday when 213 miners are scheduled to appear at a contempt hearing in U.S. District Court.

The 213 are employed by Cedar Coal Co. where the strike began July 20 to protest federal court intervention in union affairs.

Calling the dissidents a minority, White said the majority of the miners "have been deceived by them because they are able to talk better than most of the miners."

Benny Scarford, secretary-treasurer of District 31 in Fairmont, echoed White's comments. He said, "I'm sure now they (the rank and file) realize that a rebel group is at work and does not have the members at heart. You have only to look at the facts to see that this group did not care that our union was in jeopardy, that our health and retirement fund was depleted to a point that it will take months to revive."

Rhodes Defies General Calm Seen After African Riots

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Forced to accept a nursing home commission he did not want, Gov. James A. Rhodes has set out to use the panel for his own purposes—an investigation of the troubled Medicaid program.

"I'm going to get to the bottom of it," Rhodes said Thursday after the first meeting of the newly-created Nursing Home Commission, "and I don't care what the majority of the legislature thinks about it. We're going to get to the bottom of the Medicaid problem."

In calling the meeting in his cabinet room, Rhodes bypassed the Democratic chairman of the commission, Rep. William L. Mallory, D-23 Cincinnati, sponsor of the legislation.

Mallory, the House Majority Floor leader, stood outside the governor's office, gavel in hand, moments before the session began.

He had been invited, but as chairman Mallory said it was his prerogative to call meetings and set the agenda. "I was shocked when he pulled out the agenda," he said. "I was incensed so I walked out."

Rhodes, whose veto of the nursing home bill was overridden by the legislature, made it clear that he intended to expand the scope of the commission to launch a full-scale investigation of Medicaid.

He charged that the Democratic ringleaders in the General Assembly were "trying to hold up an investigation" of the health care program for the poor.

Clean Air Standards Attacked

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the United States wants to reduce dependence on foreign oil by burning more coal, it's going to have to relax clean air standards for coal, the Interior Department says.

Nearly half the coal that electric utilities are burning does not meet clean air standards, the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines reported on Wednesday.

Some 195 million of the 400 million tons of coal shipped to utilities from July 1974 to July 1975 contained too much sulphur to meet varying regional air quality standards, the report estimated.

In addition, 32 million tons used by non-utility consumers also failed to meet the standards, it said.

Bureau Director Thomas V. Falkie commented, "This study clearly indicates the need for the re-evaluation of the compatibility of federal program objectives and timetables designed to attain a greater reliance on domestically produced fuels and the regulations to effect needed environmental safeguards."

To reduce dependence on foreign fuel and still have clean air, the government should relax "overly restrictive" air quality rules and encourage production of low-sulphur coals, the report said.

Federal clean air standards are the province of the Environmental Protection Agency, which is not part of the Interior Department.

Hunting Licenses Available Soon

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Police reported general calm today in three black townships outside Cape Town after two days of rioting in which at least 29 blacks were killed and about 100 injured.

Arms and ammunition dealers reported a rush by whites to buy weapons.

A railway official said commuter trains were bringing black workers from the Langa, Nyanga and Guguletu black ghettos to work in the city without interference.

A police spokesman said there were no major incidents in the three townships during the night. But the national police commissioner, Gert Prinsloo, said a nationwide police alert remained in force.

Police announced that six blacks were killed Thursday, raising the toll from racial violence in the country to at least 218 dead since violent black protests against the white-minority

CLEVELAND (AP) — Today was just another busy day at the beverage store for Gerald Grooms of Aberdeen—except that he was considerably richer than he was one morning ago.

The 29-year-old father of five was Thursday night's winner in the last game of the Buckeye 1000 in Ohio's lottery. As such he's assured of $1,000 per month for life or at least $400,000.

Grooms said he expects to buy or build a new home with his winnings.

His wife Brenda was in the audience as the heavy-set shopowner beat out two other Ohioans. "I think she nearly fainted," he said later with a chuckle.

Eileen Roth of Dayton finished second with $2,000 and Ralph M. Ames of Payne was third with $1,000.

In the TV Extra, the top winners were Judith Delewese, Columbus, $20,000; William Dunlap, East Liverpool, $10,000; and Sally Gross, Conneaut, $5,000.

In the first drawing for the new Pot O' Gold contest, the two three-digit numbers were 265 and 695. The five-digit set was 44081.

Dancer Vanishes On Turkish Trip

LONDON (AP) — Soraya, the Turkish dancer who claimed a world record for continuous bellydancing by gyrating for 31 hours several months ago, has disappeared during a trip to Istanbul, her husband says.

Ravensdal said he planned to fly to Istanbul tonight to try to find his wife.

government's apartheid policy of racial separation began on June 16 in Johannesburg's Soweto township.

All but three of the dead were blacks.

At least 176 persons were killed during the first wave of violence, which lasted for a week in black districts around Johannesburg and Pretoria. Thirteen more persons were killed in the Johannesburg area between Aug. 4 and Aug. 9, and then the violence broke out Wednesday for the first time in the Cape Town area, 800 miles southeast of Johannesburg.

Police on Thursday arrested about 80 white students from the University of Cape Town as they marched from their campus to one of the townships to demonstrate their sympathy with the blacks. The government said they were held for violating a ban on public assemblies.

Three of the blacks who died Thursday were shot at a police roadblock on the outskirts of the Langa township. It could not be learned how the others were killed.

Prime Minister John Vorster announced a special meeting Sept. 10 of the 296 members of parliament from his ruling National party, the architects and staunch defenders of the apartheid policy.

He gave no indication of the purpose for the meeting, but the Rand Daily Mail said it could be the forerunner to "dramatic changes to some of South Africa's entrenched race attitudes."

RIDGE HOMES FINISH-IT-YOURSELF HOUSES

FROM $12,560 to $18,855*

THE DOVER $14,085*

3 bedroom rancher with bath, kitchen/dining area and a living room. Included is your choice of wall-to-wall carpeting and much more.

Until today, you've had a major problem. You thought you couldn't afford a new home. Now Ridge has the answer! The "Start Living" series.

Designed especially for economy... and quality. All of these eight Ridge Homes feature efficient floor plans that give you the most for your money. This is no time to pay for space you don't need! Ridge went back to basics. We cut frills, not corners. And created exciting homes that are right for now.

WHAT FINISH-IT-YOURSELF MEANS.

By doing some of the finishing work on your new home, you can save thousands, compared to the cost of having a general contractor custom-build the same house on your lot. And those savings can make your dream home possible — now. Here's how it works.

YOU DECIDE WHERE TO LIVE.

First, select the area where you'd like to live. Then buy a nice piece of property. If you already own a lot, you're all set.

WHAT WE DO, WHAT YOU DO.

Ridge custom-builds your home according to the plans and Ridge Homes specifications. We completely enclose your home and include the materials and fixtures you need to complete it yourself. You can do as much of the finishing work yourself as you like — the rest you can sub-contract. But remember: the more you do, the more you can save.

NO NEED TO WAIT ANY LONGER.

Now you can turn your time and money into a real future for your family. Call your Ridge Homes Dealer Representative or send the coupon for your free "Start Living" brochure.

*Prices shown are for the house semi-constructed on the owner's lot and foundation and include materials and fixtures to finish the interior. State and local taxes, transportation, landscaping, septic tanks, sidewalks, masonry work, brick stone, garages, appliances and paint are not included.

CALL YOUR RIDGE DEALER REPRESENTATIVE OR MAIL THE COUPON TODAY!

DON'T WINDOW SHOP
Let us show you the interior of this 4 bedroom home. Privacy is yours on this 3/4 acre — large enough for elbow room and yet not time consuming. The garage is a husband's delight. L.E. schools. Mid 30's.

MR. CLEAN
Is not needed in this sparkling 3 bedroom home on 1 acre. A family room is an added extra in this 30 year old ranch. Livestock — there's a building for that too. $25,500 conv.

CREATIVE ABILITY NEEDED!
You have the basic in this 6 room house — $8,500 makes it a good buy to demonstrate your creative talent! — Show anyone. Very good old residential area!

ARE YOU OUT OF
Your cotton pickin' mind? — or it just seems like it for lack of privacy. This small 2 bedroom home needs nothing — except the right people to give it the tender, loving care it so rightly deserves. Completely remodeled with immediate possession. $9,500 conv. (Fairview Blvd.)

5 acre building lots just minutes from town. $10,600. 2 & 3 acre lots in Amanda area. $5,500 & $8,350.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): An analytical look at your position may indicate some new avenue to pursue in a tricky domestic situation. In any event, avoid anxiety.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Unexpected complications may call for a sudden change in travel plans. Don't fret. Trip, as arranged, could have been disappointing.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Careful analysis, good judgment and understanding of the temperaments of associates will be required to make this a smooth-running day. Not too difficult for the intuitive Gemini!

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Especially favored now: teachers, students, homemakers. A good day, too, for those engaged in outdoor pursuits.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 21): Some new suggestions or propositions may be offered. Study each carefully and accept or reject on the basis of enduring worth — not immediate returns.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23): A few "surprises" indicated — some which will please; others which may not. Take all in stride: Things will work out in the long run.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): An excellent period for inventions, new ideas, new methods and means of approach, making adjustments and dealing in issues pertaining to the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Try strategy that worked in the past if a new one is not producing. The right start and "follow through" will keep you master of all situations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Not a spectacular day, but friendly for personal development; also for experimenting, straightening out complications and making long-range plans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Strategy — and common sense will be the biggest factors in making a successful day. THINK your way through complicated situations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Aspects fairly bright but there may be hidden snags, conditions with which to reckon carefully. No jumping to conclusions? Hear others out fully.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Look for some changing situations. Be alert, ready to take quick action, and be guided by procedures which have proved successful in the past.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a magnetic personality, vitality and an unusual gift of leadership. You are so extremely versatile that you could succeed in almost any field which appeals to you and for which you educate yourself. However, you would probably do your best in one of the professions. In such case, it will be important to remember, however, that you MUST curb an instinctive tendency to be dogmatic, or you could alienate associates. Your flair for the dramatic could make you an excellent trial lawyer or, on the stage, an heroic actor. You could also succeed at writing and (or) music. Birthdate of: John Galsworthy and Sir Walter Besant, Eng. authors.

Road Revival

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Time and usage take their toll on roads, just like people. But unlike humans, roads can be renewed indefinitely.

Based on an average life expectancy of 22 years for new pavement, one-fourth of the nation's 3.8 million miles of roads have reached "middle age" and need rejuvenation, says The Road Information Program (TRIP).

These 983,305 miles are 15 years old or more and should be resurfaced to insure longevity and safe, smooth driving. Failure to resurface means they will eventually have to be completely rebuilt at 4½ times the cost of repavings, says TRIP.

There are more than 200 geysers in Yellowstone National Park.

In the days of knights, guns had not been invented so they trained hawks who flew after small animals and killed them. Hunting with a hawk is called hawking, and sometimes called falconry.

Road Revival

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Time and usage take their toll on roads, just like people. But unlike humans, roads can be renewed indefinitely.

Based on an average life expectancy of 22 years for new pavement, one-fourth of the nation's 3.8 million miles of roads have reached "middle age" and need rejuvenation, says The Road Information Program (TRIP).

These 983,305 miles are 15 years old or more and should be resurfaced to insure longevity and safe, smooth driving. Failure to resurface means they will eventually have to be completely rebuilt at 4½ times the cost of repavings, says TRIP.

There are more than 200 geysers in Yellowstone National Park.

In the days of knights, guns had not been invented so they trained hawks who flew after small animals and killed them. Hunting with a hawk is called hawking, and sometimes called falconry.

Rubber Workers Study New Pact

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rank and file members of the United Rubber Workers who have been on strike 115 days were still waiting to find out today just what benefits they received in the most expensive offer made to a union this year. Details of an offer on economic issues were to have been made known Thursday night, but the public announcement was postponed because latecomers prevented a vote at a meeting of the union's locals representatives.

Those representatives met in private again this morning and URW president Peter Bommarito explained to them a money package announced by U.S. Secretary of Labor W.J. Usery in Washington Thursday morning. Usery said the economic package was more expensive than other union settlements negotiated this year.

Wage and cost of living issues have been hampering a settlement of a strike of more than 60,000 employees of the Goodyear, Firestone, Goodrich and Uniroyal rubber companies.

If the local representatives approve the economic package today, the union and industry still have to negotiate noneconomic matters such as job security, grievance procedures, plant closings and safety and health issues.

Bommarito said it may take as long as two weeks before a full contract is worked out and presented to the rank and file for ratification.

The extra delay will worsen the existing shortage of winter tires that go on sale this fall. Rubber industry spokesmen said the strike just about wiped out summer production of winter tires.

The eventual contract settlement and rising cost of materials also probably will force the cost of winter tires up 12½ per cent, the spokesmen said.

That means that nonradials will cost about $45 and a popular size studless winter whitewall radial will cost about $85.

The spokesmen added that the cost of nonwinter tires also is expected to rise from 12½ per cent to 16 per cent and truck tires will increase by 13 to 17 per cent, depending on size. Therefore, a popular size nonradial, nonwinter tire would go from $37.75 to $42.50.

Before Thursday's inconclusive meeting, Bommarito said he would not ask the union members to go back to work while the noneconomic issues are hammered out. He said the companies have been stubborn negotiators and don't deserve a break.

The rubber companies are being asked to pay more than other industries this year because the last URW contract, approved in 1973, was arrived at during wage and price controls. Union members received no cost of living adjustment protection in the old contract.

Earlier this year the Teamsters union received a 32 per cent increase. The difference between that and the URW settlement is of keen interest to the United Auto Workers whose contract expires soon.

held in storage.

The bill, pushed through the General Assembly by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, became law today. Bureau officials said it will save farmers more than $500,000 a year, but doesn't mean a revenue loss to local governments. The legislation precludes the first efforts ever to collect the tax.

In 1975, the Ohio Department of Taxation announced plans to begin collecting the tangibles tax on "delayed" grain contracts, following a ruling that they were, in effect, legal instruments the same as stocks, bonds, and other types of securities.

Dean Simeral, farm bureau lobbyist, said his organization requested the legislation after determining that under existing law, there were not sufficient grounds to challenge the ruling in the courts.

It was felt, he said, that the tax would impose an unfair burden on farmers forced to put their grain under contract with elevator operators who lack storage facilities locally but can transfer it elsewhere, possibly to facilities in another state under a similar contract.

Under a delayed contract, the farmer transfers his grain to the local operator, with the understanding he can claim the sale price at any future time he chooses, based on grain price quotations for that particular day. He then winds up paying taxes on the income, it was explained.

Simeral said the question of applying the tax to such contracts had not been raised previously because it wasn't until the late 1960s and early 1970s that bumper crops and changes in government programs placed a greater demand on storage facilities.

The taxation department, in its decision which the legislature now has invalidated, held that delayed contracts were subject to the intangibles tax because they represented investments. The tax is levied at $3 per $1,000 of value, and the revenues are earmarked for the support of libraries and other government agencies.

Farmers in some counties were forced to pay the tax this year based on their holdings as of last Jan. 1. Simeral pointed out however, that none will be assessed based on what they have done since then because it is computed on a calendar year basis.

Viking 2 Seeks Site

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The second Viking probe has begun its hunt for a safe place to touch down in a region of Mars that appears more hazardous, but more interesting, than Viking 1's landing place.

From its orbit around Mars, Viking 2's cameras are searching for a smooth site in the planet's northern latitudes. Scientists hope the environment there might be more suitable for the existence of Martian life forms.

Ninety-six photographs were taken Wednesday, but they were mainly for calibrating and focusing the twin cameras.

Viking 2 is in an orbit that will bring it over different spots each day for photo-taking. This way it will be able to look at the three widely separated search areas during August.

A heat-sensing instrument is also being used in the site search because the roughness of terrain can be reckoned from a pattern of temperature changes on the surface.

Some of the potential landing areas have been photographed. Generally they appeared cratered and cracked, and even the smoother locations have protrusions that one scientist called "measles."

Acuff To Perform On Opry Show

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music star Roy Acuff says he'll be ready to perform this weekend at Opryland U.S.A.

The 38-year Grand Ol' Opry veteran suffered a heart attack last April and made his first appearance since then on Wednesday, opening his show with his most famous song, "Wabash Cannonball."

He also did his traditional yoyo tricks and balanced his fiddle bow on the end of his nose.

"You know, I don't think anything could hurt me as bad as if I couldn't work the Opry again," the 72-year-old performer said later. "I'd have to leave town — just get in my car and start going."

Prison Dictionary Lists Slang Words

WASHINGTON (AP) — He's in the big house for all day and night, a new fish jammed into a drum with a cribman who's acting like a kazoonie. It's gonna be a long, long time before he beats the bricks back to his main lady.

If those words sound strange to you, it's probably because you've never been in jail.

According to a new dictionary of prison argot, this is the translation: He's in the federal penitentiary for a life sentence, a new prisoner jammed into a cell with a safecracker who's acting like a passive homosexual. It's going to be a long, long time before he gets out of prison on parole to go back to his wife.

The slang terms commonly used in prisons "trace fear and frustration, cynicism and desperation," wrote John R. Armore and Joseph D. Wolfe, editors of the "Dictionary of Desperation."

Both are officials of the National Alliance of Businessmen, which has published the volume as part of a program to teach employers about problems of inmates and encourage firms to hire ex-convicts.

They said writing the volume was "an attempt to find out more about the men, women and children behind bars in this country in an effort to get a picture of what they are thinking and feeling as revealed by the words they choose and invent in their restricted lives."

Sources for the slang terms were inmates in prisons, prison volunteer workers, social workers and journalists, they said.

Like the dialect of any society or region or social class, the argot of the prison changes with the times, the editors found.

The jail used to be the "cooler" or the "jug"; now it's the "slammer." One's house or apartment still is called a "pad," but the newer term is a "crib."

A high proportion of the slang words reflect the prisoners' familiarity and involvement with drug use and trafficking.

In the outside world, drunk means intoxicated. In prison, it means high on drugs. The dozens of words for specific drugs include some commonly used on the street. For example, "crank" means methedrine, "smack" means heroin, "angel dust" or "rocket fuel" means phencyclidine, an anesthetic for animals that produces a "high" in humans.

The cynicism comes through in the terms inmates use to describe their surroundings and ways to get out of them.

The "Waldorf Astoria," name of the luxury hotel in New York, is a term applied to a solitary confinement cell with no furnishings at all.

The inmate who regularly goes to chapel and pretends other signs of reform is said to be "working the glory road."

Dozens of terms for homosexuality reflect the episodes that occur frequently when large communities of men or women are permitted no physical contact with the opposite sex.

An aggressive homosexual male is a "jocker," a passive one may be a "kazoonie" or a "girl." An effeminate homosexual male may be called a "gal boy." In a curious derivation, French toast is considered "gal boy bread" in some regions.

to have death records that were vague. Fallsview, at Cuyahoga Falls, had administration problems which included a finding that the assistant superintendent, instead of the superintendent, is in charge.

At Lima State Hospital, one ward had not been visited by a physician for an entire month, and rubber stamps of physicians' signatures were used to obtain drugs. The department said the patrol found incidents of abuse at Lima frequently could be traced to "front line supervisors." Security at the Lima institution was described as "lax."

The Toledo revelations came as more of a surprise because only a few months ago, Moritz had been quoted as saying that institution was one of the better ones in the state.

Burglary Investigated

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies investigated a breaking and entering at the IOOF Lodge in Derby yesterday.

According to the report, the culprits entered the building by cutting a hole in the screen door and unlatching it, then forcing open the inside door.

Urge Broad Energy Plan

CINCINNATI (AP) — U.S. Sen. Wendell H. Ford, D-Ky., believes the nation's environmental and energy problems can be solved by a massive effort and called for creation of programs similar to the development of the atomic bomb and the space program.

Ford told a joint meeting of the Northern Kentucky and Cincinnati chambers of commerce that he was discouraged by congressional efforts on both programs thus far.

Ford called for the nation's energy solving facilities to be placed in a unified group similar to Apollo Project predicting "we could have a workable solar energy program within a few years."

Ford noted the problems of Frank Zarb, the federal energy administrator. Ford said Zarb has to deal with 14 congressional committees and 20 subcommittees. "You couldn't run a business that way," said Ford.

Ford said Congress has done "damn little" about the energy shortage, drawing applause.

Phone Rates Rise Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — You'd better have some extra change if you step into a public telephone booth today. That local call is now 20 cents, and long distance rates have jumped 37 per cent.

Ohio Bell Telephone Co.'s new rates go into effect today and telephone users will see the price for nearly every service go up.

Nevertheless, many residential customers may not feel the crunch because of the new measured service billing system which also becomes effective today.

The new service allows residential users to buy 30 calls a month for $7.50. Each call above 30 per month would cost nine cents, but the company says the measured service feature would still be cheaper for up to 65 calls a month than unlimited service.

Residential customers may switch to measured service without charge until Oct. 1, 1978. The catch comes for those who switch to measured service and then decide to go back to unlimited use. That will cost $18.25.

Storms Diminish After Last Gasp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After several days of heavy weather across much of the country, thunderstorm activity came to an end overnight in several areas. Only a few storms were scattered along the Gulf coast, for example, and none were left in Oklahoma and Texas. Just a few thundershowers persisted into this morning over the northern plains, Kansas, the Rockies and New England.

However, thunderstorms were still prevalent from northern Illinois through Indiana, Ohio and the eastern Great Lakes.

A weak cold front made its way into the north central part of the nation this morning. Cooler temperatures — in the upper 50s — were noted in the northern extremities of North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Skies were mostly clear over Texas, the lower Mississippi valley, the southern portion of the Ohio valley, the southern half of the Atlantic coast states, the southwestern states and California.

Temperatures were generally in the 70s, but in the 60s through the northern Great Lakes, the northern plains, the Rockies, the plateau, the Pacific Northwest and much of California. A few 90s could be found in the desert Southwest.

There were few reports of severe weather yesterday. But in Largo, Fla., a tornado churned through a mobile home community of retired people, killing one woman and injuring at least seven other persons. The twister scattered sheet metal and plywood as it destroyed about 30 mobile homes and damaged about 70 others.

Another tornado was reported near Devils Lake, N.D. Large hail fell near Dubuque, Iowa.

Early-morning temperatures ranged from 45 at Craig, Colo., to 92 at Needles, Calif.

Orient Dairy Facilities Inspected

Wednesday Hugh Barnhill, chief environmentalist with the Pickaway County Health Department, met with Robert McNall, farms consultant with the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Retardation, and Mr. James Ebright of the Ohio Department of Health to finalize plans for improvements to the dairy facilities at Orient State Institute. Milk is processed at the facility for Orient State and several other mental institutions in Ohio.

Final plans and equipment listings will be submitted to the Pickaway County Board of Health for approval in September with construction to begin about the first of November of this year.

Two new free standing stalls will be built to accommodate the 200 milking cows. A milking parlor will be constructed and the existing milk plant will be abandoned. The new facility will incorporate some of the latest automatic equipment which will greatly reduce the labor costs and improve sanitation at the facility.

An inspection of the present facility revealed deficiencies in construction of equipment and cleaning.

Items stressed during the inspection were:

Complete and thorough cleaning of all milk contact surfaces, storage and handling equipment and use of pipeline gaskets.

Politics Intruding On Postal Service?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A real estate developer who serves as a campaign fund-raiser for President Ford is being handed a "plum" job on the Postal Service board of governors, five years after politics was supposed to have been eliminated from the Postal Service.

Hung Wai Ching, finance chairman for Ford's campaign in Hawaii, is being named to the board at least partly because of his efforts on behalf of the Republican party, according to Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, who recommended him for the postal job.

The post could pay Ching, a Honolulu developer, up to $13,600 a year for attending 12 meetings. Ching was confirmed by the Senate without debate last week.

Fong, asked about his part in the Ching appointment by Ford, said, "I did recommend him. That's politics. I have known him since high school and I know him to be a man of integrity."

Fong, who five years ago was one of the supporters of a bill designed to remove the Postal Service from the influence of politics, was asked if politics had anything to do with the selection of Ching as a member of the board of governors.

"Oh, yes," Fong replied. "He's worked very hard for the party. That was one of the things I thought of, along with his other activities."

Fong, in urging Senate approval of the bill to reorganize the Postal Service in 1971, vowed in an Aug. 30, 1970, Senate speech that "this bill will eliminate politics from the Post Office Department as we have seen it operate."

Since then, Fong, the ranking Republican on the Senate postal committee, has acknowledged selecting White House nominees to the board and to the Postal Rate Commission.

Fong, in a January speech, boasted of "recommending and helping place qualified people from Hawaii in high government posts."

He included in this group Dr. John Y. Ing, a Honolulu dentist and real estate developer who served two stints as a Postal Service governor. Ing failed to attend 17 of the 20 board meetings during his tenure, board records show. The meetings he did attend totaled 14 hours and 15 minutes, for which he was paid $17,066, records show.

Ching replaces Ing on the board.

One of the stated goals of the postal reorganization of 1971 was to remove politics from the mail service. Previously, members of Congress controlled appointments of postmasters in their districts and the job of postmaster general frequently was a reward that went to the president's campaign manager.

The Postal Reorganization Act also established the board of governors. The governors meet once a month. They are paid $10,000 per year, plus $300 for every monthly meeting attended.

Power Siting Panel Sets Meets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Power Siting Commission plans to begin hearings Nov. 1 on a Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. proposal for construction of a 138 kilovolt transmission line in Franklin County.

The utility is seeking a certificate of environmental compatibility and public need for the line which would run from a Grove City substation to one near Gay and Fourth Streets in Columbus.

Boxing Champ Stops Thug

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two-time Golden Gloves boxing champ Aaron Pryor, who was beaten out for a spot on the U.S. Olympic Team, made a believer of a burglary suspect with his left hook.

Pryor spotted a man on the fire escape of his West End apartment building when Pryor returned home from a date early Thursday morning. They man was climbing into the window of his third floor apartment.

Pryor said he raced up the stairs but the man passed him running down and burst out the front door with Pryor in close pursuit.

"When I caught him, he said, 'Hey man, what do you want?'"

"I didn't know if he was armed or what so I just hit him with a left hook," said the 20-year-old boxer.

Police arrived shortly after and Tyrone Mitchell, 22, was charged with aggravated burglary.

Pryor was beaten in the Olympic trials by Howard Davis who went on to win a gold medal at Montreal.
